BECKET

TENNYSON

DRAMATIS PERSONÆ.

HENRY II. (son of the Earl of Anjou).

THOMAS BECKET, Chancellor of England, afterwards Archbishop of Canterbury.

GILBERT FOLIOT, Bishop of London.

Bishop of Hereford.

HILARY, Bishop of Chichester.

JOCELYN, Bishop of Salisbury.

JOHN OF SALISBURY, } Friends of Becket.

HERBERT OF BOSHAM, }

KING LOUIS OF FRANCE.

GEOFFREY, son of Rosamund and Henry.

GRIM, a monk of Cambridge.

SIR REGINALD FITZURSE, } the four knights of the King's household,

SIR RICHARD DE BRITO, }

SIR WILLIAM DE TRACY, }

SIR HUGH DE MORVILLE, }

enemies of Becket.

DE BROC OF SALTWOOD CASTLE.

LORD LEICESTER.

PHILIP DE ELEEMOSYNA.

TWO KNIGHT TEMPLARS.

JOHN OF OXFORD (called the Swearer).

ELEANOR OF AQUITAINE, Queen of England (divorced from Louis of France).

ROSAMUND DE CLIFFORD.

MARGERY.

Knights, Monks, Beggars, etc.

A Castle in Normandy. Interior of the Hall. Roofs of a City seen thro' Windows.

HENRY and BECKET at Chess.

Henry. So then our good Archbishop Theobald
Lies dying.

Becket. I am grieved to know as much.

Henry. But we must have a mightier man than he

For his successor.

Becket. Have you thought of one?

Henry. A cleric lately poison'd his own mother,
And being brought before the courts of the Church,

They but degraded him. I hope they whipt him.
I would have hang'd him.

Becket. It is your move.

Henry. Well—there. [Moves.

The Church in the pell-mell of Stephen's time Hath climb'd the throne and almost clutch'd the crown ;

But by the royal customs of our realm
The Church should hold her baronies of me,
Like other lords amenable to law.
I'll have them written down and made the law.

Becket. My liege, I move my bishop.

Henry. And if I live,
No man without my leave shall excommunicate
My tenants or my household.

Becket. Look to your king.

Henry. No man, without my leave, shall cross the seas

To set the Pope against me—I pray your pardon.

Becket. Well—will you move ?

Henry. There. [Moves.

Becket. Check—you move so wildly.

Henry. There then ! [Moves.

Becket. Why—there then, for you see my bishop

Hath brought your king to a standstill. You are beaten.

Henry (kicks over the board). Why, there then—down go bishop and king together.

I loathe being beaten ; had I fixt my fancy
Upon the game I should have beaten thee,
But that was vagabond.

Becket. Where, my liege ? With Phryne,
Or Lais, or thy Rosamund, or another ?

Henry. My Rosamund is no Lais, Thomas
Becket ;

And yet she plagues me too—no fault in her—
But that I fear the Queen would have her life.

Becket. Put her away, put her away, my liege !
Put her away into a nunnery !

Safe enough there from her to whom thou art bound

By Holy Church. And wherefore should she seek

The life of Rosamund de Clifford more
Than that of other paramours of thine ?

Henry. How dost thou know I am not wedded to her ?

Becket. How should I know ?

Henry. That is my secret, Thomas.

Becket. State secrets should be patent to the statesman

Who serves and loves his king, and whom the king

Loves not as statesman, but true lover and friend.

Henry. Come, come, thou art but deacon, not yet bishop,

No, nor archbishop, nor my confessor yet.
I would to God thou wert, for I should find
An easy father confessor in thee.

Becket. St. Denis, that thou shouldst not. I should beat .

Thy kingship as my bishop hath beaten it.

Henry. Hell take thy bishop then, and my kingship too !

Come, come, I love thee and I know thee, I know
thee,

A doter on white pheasant-flesh at feasts,

A sauce-deviser for thy days of fish,

A dish-designer, and most amorous

Of good old red sound liberal Gascon wine :

Will not thy body rebel, man, if thou flatter it ?

Becket. That palate is insane which cannot tell

A good dish from a bad, new wine from old.

Henry. Well, who loves wine loves woman.

Becket. So I do.

Men are God's trees, and women are God's flowers ;

And when the Gascon wine mounts to my head,

The trees are all the statelier, and the flowers

Are all the fairer.

Henry. And thy thoughts, thy fancies ?

Becket. Good dogs, my liege, well train'd, and easily called

Off from the game.

Henry. Save for some once or twice,
When they ran down the game and worried it.

Becket. No, my liege, no!—not once—in God's name, no!

Henry. Nay, then, I take thee at thy word—believe thee
The veriest Galahad of old Arthur's hall.
And so this Rosamund, my true heart-wife,
Not Eleanor—she whom I love indeed
As a woman should be loved—Why dost thou smile
So dolorously?

Becket. My good liege, if a man Wastes himself among women, how should he love

A woman, as a woman should be loved?

Henry. How shouldst thou know that never hast loved one?

Come, I would give her to thy care in England
When I am out in Normandy or Anjou.

Becket. My lord, I am your subject, not your—

Henry. Pander.

God's eyes! I know all that—not my purveyor
Of pleasures, but to save a life—her life;
Ay, and the soul of Eleanor from hell-fire.
I have built a secret bower in England, Thomas,
A nest in a bush.

Becket. And where, my liege?

Henry (whispers). Thine ear.

Becket. That's lone enough.

Henry (laying paper on table). This chart here
mark'd "Her Bower,"

Take, keep it, friend. See, first, a circling wood,
A hundred pathways running every way,
And then a brook, a bridge ; and after that
This labyrinthine brickwork maze in maze,
And then another wood, and in the midst
A garden and my Rosamund. Look, this line—
The rest you see is color'd green,—but this Draws thro' the chart to her.

Becket. This blood-red line ?

Henry. Ay ! blood, perchance, except thou see to her.

Becket. And where is she ? There in her
English nest ?

Henry. Would God she were—no, here within the city.

We take her from her secret bower in Anjou
And pass her to her secret bower in England.
She is ignorant of all but that I love her.

Becket. My liege, I pray thee let me hence : a widow

And orphan child, whom one of thy wild barons—

Henry. Ay, ay, but swear to see to her in England.

Becket. Well, well, I swear, but not to please myself.

Henry. Whatever come between us ?

Becket. What should come Between us, Henry ?

Henry. Nay—I know not, Thomas.

Becket. What need then ? Well—whatever come between us. [Going.

Henry. A moment ! thou didst help me to my throne

In Theobald's time, and after by thy wisdom
Hast kept it firm from shaking ; but now I,
For my realm's sake, myself must be the wizard
To raise that tempest which will set it trembling
Only to base it deeper. I, true son
Of Holy Church—no croucher to the Gregories
That tread the kings their children underheel—
Must curb her ; and the Holy Father, while
This Barbarossa butts him from his chair,
Will need my help—be facile to my hands.
Now is my time. Yet—lest there should be flashes

And fulminations from the side of Rome,
An interdict on England—I will have My young son Henry crown'd the King of England,

That so the Papal bolt may pass by England,
As seeming his, not mine, and fall abroad.
I'll have it done—and now.

Becket. Surely too young
Even for this shadow of a crown ; and tho'

I love him heartily, I can spy already
A strain of hard and headstrong in him. Say,
The Queen should play his kingship against thine!

Henry. I will not think so, Thomas. Who shall crown him?

Canterbury is dying.

Becket. The next Canterbury.

Henry. And who shall he be, my friend
Thomas? Who?

Becket. Name him; the Holy Father will confirm him.

Henry (lays his hand on Becket's shoulder).
Here!

Becket. Mock me not. I am not even a monk.

Thy jest—no more. Why—look—is this a sleeve

For an archbishop?

Henry. But the arm within
Is Becket's, who hath beaten down my foes.

Becket. A soldier's, not a spiritual arm.

Henry. I lack a spiritual soldier, Thomas—
A man of this world and the next to boot.

Becket. There's Gilbert Foliot.

Henry. He! too thin, too thin.
Thou art the man to fill out the Church robe;
Your Foliot fasts and fawns too much for me.

Becket. Roger of York.

Henry. Roger is Roger of York.
King, Church, and State to him but foils wherein
To set that precious jewel, Roger of York.
No.

Becket. Henry of Winchester ?

Henry. Him who crown'd Stephen—
King Stephen's brother ! No ; too royal for me.
And I'll have no more Anselms.

Becket. Sire, the business
Of thy whole kingdom waits me : let me go.

Henry. Answer me first.

Becket. Then for thy barren jest
Take thou mine answer in bare commonplace—
Nolo episcopari.

Henry. Ay, but Nolo
Archiepiscopari, my good friend,
Is quite another matter.

Becket. A more awful one.
Make me archbishop ! Why, my liege, I know
Some three or four poor priests a thousand times
Fitter for this grand function. Me archbishop !
God's favor and king's favor might so clash
That thou and I—That were a jest indeed !

Henry. Thou angerest me, man : I do not jest.

Enter ELEANOR and SIR REGINALD FITZURSE.

Eleanor (singing).

Over! the sweet summer closes,
The reign of the roses is done—

Henry (to Becket, who is going). Thou shalt not go. I have not ended with thee.

Eleanor (seeing chart on table). This chart with the red line! her bower! whose bower?

Henry. The chart is not mine, but Becket's: take it, Thomas.

Eleanor. Becket! O—ay—and these chessmen on the floor—the king's crown broken! Becket hath beaten thee again—and thou hast kicked down the board. I know thee of old.

Henry. True enough, my mind was set upon other matters.

Eleanor. What matters? State matters? love matters?

Henry. My love for thee, and thine for me.

Eleanor.

Over! the sweet summer closes,
The reign of the roses is done;
Over and gone with the roses,
And over and gone with the sun.

Here; but our sun in Aquitaine lasts longer. I would I were in Aquitaine again—your north chills me.

Over! the sweet summer closes,
And never a flower at the close:
Over and gone with the roses,
And winter again and the snows.

That was not the way I ended it first—but unsymmetrically, preposterously, illogically, out of passion, without art—like a song of the people. Will you have it? The last Parthian shaft of a forlorn Cupid at the King's left breast, and all left-handedness and under-handedness.

And never a flower at the close,
Over and gone with the roses,
Not over and gone with the rose.

True, one rose will outblossom the rest, one rose in a bower. I speak after my fancies, for I am a Troubadour, you know, and won the violet at Toulouse; but my voice is harsh here, not in tune, a nightingale out of season; for marriage, rose or no rose, has killed the golden violet.

Becket. Madam, you do ill to scorn wedded love.

Eleanor. So I do. Louis of France loved me, and I dreamed that I loved Louis of France; and I loved Henry of England, and Henry of England dreamed that he loved me; but the marriage-garland withers even with the putting on, the bright link rusts with the breath of the first after-marriage kiss, the harvest moon is the ripening of the harvest, and the honeymoon is the gall of love; he dies of his honeymoon. I could pity this poor world myself that it is no better ordered.

Henry. Dead is he, my Queen? What, altogether? Let me swear nay to that by this cross on thy neck. God's eyes! what a lovely cross! what jewels!

Eleanor. Doth it please you? Take it and wear it on that hard heart of yours—there.

[Gives it to him.]

Henry (puts it on). On this left breast before so hard a heart,
To hide the scar left by thy Parthian dart.

Eleanor. Has my simple song set you jingling? Nay, if I took and translated that hard heart into our Provençal facilities, I could so play about it with the rhyme—

Henry. That the heart were lost in the rhyme and the matter in the metre. May we not pray you, Madam, to spare us the hardness of your facility?

Eleanor. The wells of Castaly are not wasted upon the desert. We did but jest.

Henry. There's no jest on the brows of Herbert there. What is it, Herbert?

Enter HERBERT OF BOSHAM.

Herbert. My liege, the good Archbishop is no more.

Henry. Peace to his soul!

Herbert. I left him with peace on his face—that sweet other-world smile, which will be reflected in the spiritual body among the angels. But he longed much to see your Grace and the Chancellor ere he past, and his last words were a commendation of Thomas Becket to your Grace as his successor in the archbishopric.

Henry. Ha, Becket! thou rememberest our talk?

Becket. My heart is full of tears—I have no answer.

Henry. Well, well, old men must die, or the world would grow mouldy, would only breed the past again. Come to me to-morrow. Thou hast but to hold out thy hand. Meanwhile the revenues are mine. A-hawking, a-hawking! If I sit, I grow fat.

[Leaps over the table, and exit.]

Becket. He did prefer me to the chancellorship. Believing I should ever aid the Church—But have I done it? He commends me now From out his grave to this archbishopric.

Herbert. A dead man's dying wish should be of weight.

Becket. His should. Come with me. Let me learn at full The manner of his death, and all he said.

[Exeunt HERBERT and BECKET.]

Eleanor. Fitzurse, that chart with the red line—thou sawest it—her bower.

Fitzurse. Rosamund's?

Eleanor. Ay—there lies the secret of her whereabouts, and the King gave it to his Chancellor.

Fitzurse. To this son of a London merchant—how your Grace must hate him.

Eleanor. Hate him? as brave a soldier as Henry and a goodlier man: but thou—dost thou love this Chancellor, that thou hast sworn a voluntary allegiance to him?

Fitzurse. Not for my love toward him, but because he had the love of the King. How should a baron love a beggar on horseback, with the retinue of three kings behind him, outroyaling royalty? Besides, he help the King to break down our castles, for the which I hate him.

Eleanor. For the which I honor him. Statesman not Churchman he. A great and sound policy that: I could embrace him for it: you could not see the King for the kinglings.

Fitzurse. Ay, but he speaks to a noble as tho' he were a churl, and to a churl as if he were a noble.

Eleanor. Pride of the plebeian!

Fitzurse. And this plebeian like to be Archbishop!

Eleanor. True, and I have an inherited loathing of these black sheep of the Papacy. Archbishop? I can see further into a man than our hot-headed Henry, and if there ever come feud between Church and Crown, and I do not then charm this secret out of our loyal Thomas, I am not Eleanor.

Fitzurse. Last night I followed a woman in the city here. Her face was veiled, but the back methought was Rosamund—his paramour, thy rival. I can feel for thee.

Eleanor. Thou feel for me!—paramour—rival! King Louis had no paramours, and I loved him none the more. Henry had many, and I loved him none the less—now neither more nor less—not at all; the cup's empty. I would she were but his paramour, for men tire of their fancies; but I fear this one fancy hath taken root, and borne blossom too, and she, whom the King loves indeed, is a power in the State. Rival!—ay, and when the King passes, there may come a crash and embroilment as in Stephen's time; and her children—canst thou not—that secret matter which would heat the King against thee (whispers him and he starts). Nay, that is safe with me as with thyself: but canst thou not—thou art drowned in debt—thou shalt have our love, our silence, and our gold—canst thou not—if thou light upon her—free me from her?

Fitzurse. Well, Madam, I have loved her in my time.

Eleanor. No, my dear, thou hast not. My Courts of Love would have held thee guiltless of love—the fine attractions and repulses, the delicacies, the subtleties.

Fitzurse. Madam, I loved according to the main purpose and intent of nature.

Eleanor. I warrant thee! thou wouldst hug thy Cupid till his ribs cracked—enough of this. Follow me this Rosamund day and night, whithersoever she goes; track her, if thou canst, even into the King's lodging, that I may (clenches her fist)—may at least have my cry against him and her,—and thou in thy way shouldst be jealous of the King, for thou in thy way didst once, what shall I call it, affect her thine own self.

Fitzurse. Ay, but the young colt winced and whinnied and flung up her heels; and then the King came honeying about her, and this Becket, her father's friend, like enough staved us from her.

Eleanor. Us!

Fitzurse. Yes, by the Blessed Virgin! There were more than I buzzing round the blossom—De Tracy—even that flint De Brito.

Eleanor. Carry her off among you; run in upon her and devour her, one and all of you; make her as hateful to herself and to the King, as she is to me.

Fitzurse. I and all would be glad to wreak our spite on the rosefaced minion of the King, and bring her to the level of the dust, so that the King—

Eleanor. Let her eat it like the serpent, and be driven out of her paradise.

ScENE I.

BECKET'S House in London.
Chamber barely furnished.
BECKET unrobing. HERBERT
OF BOSHAM and SERVANT.

Servant. Shall I not help your lordship to your rest?

Becket. Friend, am I so much better than thyself
That thou shouldst help me? Thou art wearied out
With this day's work, get thee to thine own bed.

Leave me with Herbert, friend. [Exit SERVANT.
Help me off, Herbert, with this—and this.

Herbert. Was not the people's blessing as we past
Heart-comfort and a balsam to thy blood?

Becket. The people know their Church a tower of strength,
A bulwark against Throne and Baronage.
Too heavy for me, this ; off with it, Herbert !

Herbert. Is it so much heavier than thy Chancellor's robe ?

Becket. No ; but the Chancellor's and the Archbishop's
Together more than mortal man can bear.

Herbert. Not heavier than thine armor at Toulouse ?

Becket. O Herbert, Herbert, in my chancellorship

I more than once have gone against the Church.

Herbert. To please the King ?

Becket. Ay, and the King of kings,
Or justice ; for it seem'd to me but just
The Church should pay her scutage like the lords.

But hast thou heard this cry of Gilbert Foliot
That I am not the man to be your Primate,
For Henry could not work a miracle—
Make an Archbishop of a soldier ?

Herbert. Ay,
For Gilbert Foliot held himself the man.

Becket. Am I the man ? My mother, ere she bore me,

Dream'd that twelve stars fell glittering out of heaven

Into her bosom.

Herbert. Ay, the fire, the light,
The spirit of the twelve Apostles enter'd
Into thy making.

Becket. And when I was a child,
The Virgin, in a vision of my sleep,
Gave me the golden keys of Paradise. Dream,
Or prophecy, that?

Herbert. Well, dream and prophecy both.

Becket. And when I was of Theobald's household, once—
The good old man would sometimes have his jest—
He took his mitre off, and set it on me,
And said, "My young Archbishop—thou wouldst make
A stately Archbishop!" Jest or prophecy
there?

Herbert. Both, Thomas, both.

Becket. Am I the man? That rang
Within my head last night, and when I slept
Methought I stood in Canterbury Minster,
And spake to the Lord God, and said, "O
Lord,
I have been a lover of wines, and delicate meats,

And secular splendors, and a favorer
Of players, and a courtier, and a feeder
Of dogs and hawks, and apes, and lions, and lynxes.

Am I the man?" And the Lord answer'd
me,

"Thou art the man, and all the more the man."

And then I asked again, "O Lord my God,

Henry the King hath been my friend, my brother,

And mine uplifter in this world, and chosen
me

For this Thy great archbishopric, believing That I should go against the Church with
him,

And I shall go against him with the Church,

And I have said no word of this to him :

Am I the man?" And the Lord answer'd
me,

"Thou art the man, and all the more the
man."

And thereupon, methought, He drew toward
me,

And smote me down upon the Minster floor.

I fell.

Herbert. God make not thee, but thy foes, fall.

Becket. I fell. Why fall? Why did He smite me? What?
Shall I fall off—to please the King once more?
Not fight—tho' somehow traitor to the King—
My truest and mine utmost for the Church?

Herbert. Thou canst not fall that way. Let traitor be;
For how have fought thine utmost for the Church,
Save from the throne of thine archbishopric?
And how been made Archbishop hadst thou told
him,
“I mean to fight mine utmost for the Church,
Against the King?”

Becket. But dost thou think the King
Forced mine election?

Herbert. I do think the King
Was potent in the election, and why not?
Why should not Heaven have so inspired the King?

Be comforted. Thou art the man—be thou
A mightier Anselm.

Becket. I do believe thee, then. I am the man.
And yet I seem appall'd—on such a sudden
At such an eagle-height I stand and see
The rift that runs between me and the King.
I served our Theobald well when I was with
him;

I served King Henry well as Chancellor ;
 I am his no more, and I must serve the Church.

This Canterbury is only less than Rome,
 And all my doubts I fling from me like dust,

Winnow and scatter all scruples to the wind,
 And all the puissance of the warrior,
 And all the wisdom of the Chancellor,
 And all the heap'd experiences of life,
 I cast upon the side of Canterbury—
 Our holy mother Canterbury, who sits
 With tatter'd robes. Laics and barons, thro'
 The random gifts of careless kings, have graspt

Her livings, her advowsons, granges, farms,
 And goodly acres—we will make her whole ;
 Not one rood lost. And for these royal customs,

These ancient royal customs,—they are Royal,
 Not of the Church—and let them be anathema,
 And all that speak for them anathema.

Herbert. Thomas, thou art moved too much.

Becket. O Herbert, here
 I gash myself asunder from the King,
 Tho' leaving each, a wound ; mine own, a grief

To show the scar forever¹—his, a hate
 Not ever to be heal'd.

*Enter ROSAMUND DE CLIFFORD, flying from SIR
REGINALD FITZURSE. Drops her veil.*

Becket.

Rosamund de Clifford!

Rosamund. Save me, father, hide me—they follow me—and I must not be known.

Becket. Pass in with Herbert there.

[*Exeunt ROSAMUND and HERBERT
by side door.*]

Enter FITZURSE.

Fitzurse. The Archbishop !

Becket. Ay ! what wouldst thou, Reginald ?

Fitzurse. Why—why, my lord, I follow'd—follow'd one—

Becket. And then what follows ? Let me follow thee.

Fitzurse. It much imports me I should know her name.

Becket. What her ?

Fitzurse. The woman that I follow'd hither.

Becket. Perhaps it may import her all as much
Not to be known.

Fitzurse. And what care I for that ?
Come, come, my lord Archbishop ; I saw that door

Close even now upon the woman.

Becket. Well ?

Fitzurse (making for the door). Nay, let me pass, my lord, for I must know.

Becket. Back, man !

Fitzurse. Then tell me who and what she is.

Becket. Art thou so sure thou followedst anything ?

Go home, and sleep thy wine off, for thine eyes
Glare stupid-wild with wine.

Fitzurse (making to the door). I must and will.
I care not for thy new archbishopric.

Becket. Back, man, I tell thee ! What !
 Shall I forget my new archbishopric
 And smite thee with my crozier on the skull ?
 'Fore God, I am a mightier man than thou.

Fitzurse. It well befits thy new archbishopric
 To take the vagabond woman of the street
 Into thine arms !

Becket. O drunken ribaldry !
 Out, beast ! out, bear !

Fitzurse. I shall remember this.

Becket. Do, and begone ! [Exit FITZURSE.
 (Going to the door, sees DE TRACY.)

Tracy, what dost thou here ?

De Tracy. My lord, I follow'd Reginald Fitzurse.

Becket. Follow him out !

De Tracy. I shall remember this Discourtesy. [Exit.

Becket. Do. These be those baron-brutes
 That havock'd all the land in Stephen's day.
 Rosamund de Clifford.

Reënter ROSAMUND and HERBERT.

Rosamund. Here am I.

Becket. Why here ?
 We gave thee to the charge of John of Salisbury,
 To pass thee to thy secret bower to-morrow.
 Wast thou not told to keep thyself from sight ?

Rosamund. Poor bird of passage ! so I was ;
but, father,
They say that you are wise in winged things,
And know the ways of Nature. Bar the bird
From following the fled summer—a chink—he's out,
Gone ! And there stole into the city a breath
Full of the meadows, and it minded me
Of the sweet woods of Clifford, and the walks
Where I could move at pleasure, and I thought Lo ! I must out or die.

Becket. Or out and die.
And what hast thou to do with this Fitzurse ?

Rosamund. Nothing. He sued my hand. I shook at him.
He found me once alone.—Nay—nay—I cannot Tell you : my father drove him and his friends,
De Tracy and De Brito, from our castle.
I was but fourteen and an April then.
I heard him swear revenge.

Becket. Why will you court it
By self-exposure ? flutter out at night ?
Make it so hard to save a moth from the fire ?

Rosamund. I have saved many of 'em. You catch 'em, so,
Softly, and fling them out to the free air.
They burn themselves within-door.

Becket. Our good John Must speed you to your bower at once. The child

Is there already.

Rosamund. Yes—the child—the child—
O rare, a whole long day of open field.

Becket. Ay, but you go disguised.

Rosamund. O rare again !
We'll baffle them, I warrant. What shall it be ?
I'll go as a nun.

Becket. No.

Rosamund, What, not good enough
Even to play at nun ?

Becket. Dan John with a nun,
That Map, and these new railers at the Church
May plaister his clean name with scurrilous rhymes !

No !

Go like a monk, cowling and clouding up
That fatal star, thy Beauty, from the squint
Of lust and glare of malice. Good night ! good night !

Rosamund. Father, I am so tender to all hardness !

Nay, father, first thy blessing.

Becket. Wedded ?

Rosamund. Father !

Becket. Well, well ! I ask no more. Heaven bless thee ! hence !

Rosamund. O, holy father, when thou seest him
next,
Commend me to thy friend.

Becket. What friend?

Rosamund. The King.

Becket. Herbert, take out a score of armed men

To guard this bird of passage to her cage ;
And watch Fitzurse, and if he follow thee,
Make him thy prisoner. I am Chancellor yet.

[Exeunt HERBERT and ROSAMUND.

Poor soul ! poor soul !

My friend, the King ! . . . O thou Great Seal of England,

Given me by my dear friend the King of England—

We long have wrought together, thou and I—
Now must I send thee as a common friend
To tell the King, my friend, I am against him.
We are friends no more : he will say that, not I.
The worldly bond between us is dissolved,
Not yet the love : can I be under him
As Chancellor ? as Archbishop over him ?
Go therefore like a friend slighted by one
That hath climb'd up to nobler company.
Not slighted—all but moan'd for : thou must go.

I have not dishonor'd thee—I trust I have not ;

Not mangled justice. May the hand that next

Inherits thee be but as true to thee
As mine hath been! O, my dear friend, the King!

O brother!—I may come to martyrdom.
I am martyr in myself already.—Herbert!

Herbert (reëntering). My lord, the town is quiet, and the moon
Divides the whole long street with light and shade.

No footfall—no Fitzurse. We have seen her home,

Becket. The hog hath tumbled himself into some corner,
Some ditch, to snore away his drunkenness
Into the sober headache,—Nature's moral Against excess. Let the Great Seal be sent Back to the King to-morrow.

Herbert. Must that be?
The King may rend the bearer limb from limb.
Think on it again.

Becket. Against the moral excess
No physical ache, but failure it may be
Of all we aim'd at. John of Salisbury
Hath often laid a cold hand on my heats,
And Herbert hath rebuked me even now.
I will be wise and wary, not the soldier
As Foliot swears it.—John, and out of breath!

Enter JOHN OF SALISBURY.

John of Salisbury. Thomas, thou wast not happy taking charge
Of this wild Rosamund to please the King,
Nor am I happy having charge of her—
The included Danaë has escaped again
Her tower, and her Acrisius—where to seek?
I have been about the city.

Becket. Thou wilt find her Back in her lodging. Go with her—at once—
To-night—my men will guard you to the gates.
Be sweet to her, she has many enemies.
Send the Great Seal by daybreak. Both, goodnight!

Scene II.

Street in Northampton, leading to the Castle.

ELEANOR'S RETAINERS and BECKET'S RETAINERS
fighting. Enter ELEANOR and BECKET from opposite streets.

Eleanor. Peace, fools !

Becket. Peace, friends ! what idle brawl is this ?

Retainer of Becket. They said—her Grace's people—thou wast found—Liars ! I shame to quote 'em—caught, my lord,
With a wanton in thy lodging—Hell requite
'em !

Retainer of Eleanor. My liege, the Lord
Fitzurse reported this
In passing to the Castle even now.

Retainer of Becket. And then they mock'd us and we fell upon 'em,
For we would live and die for thee, my lord,
However kings and queens may frown on thee.

Becket (to his RETAINERS). Go, go—no more of this !

Eleanor (to her RETAINERS). Away !—

[Exeunt RETAINERS.
Fitzurse—

Becket. Nay, let him be.

Eleanor. No, no, my Lord Archbishop,
'Tis known you are midwinter to all women,
But often in your chancellorship you served
The follies of the King.

Becket. No, not these follies !

Eleanor. My lord, Fitzurse beheld her in your lodging.

Becket. Whom ?

Eleanor. Well—you know—the minion, Rosamund.

Becket. He had good eyes !

Eleanor. Then, hidden in the street,
He watch'd her pass with John of Salisbury
And heard her cry "Where is this bower of mine ?"

Becket. Good ears too !

Eleanor. You are going to the Castle,
Will you subscribe the customs ?

Becket. I leave that,
Knowing how much you reverence Holy Church,
My liege, to your conjecture.

Eleanor. I and mine—
And many a baron holds along with me—
Are not so much at feud with Holy Church
But we might take your side against the customs—

So that you grant me one slight favor.

Becket. What ?

Eleanor. A sight of that same chart which Henry gave you
With the red line—"her bower."

Becket. And to what end?

Eleanor. That Church must scorn herself whose fearful Priest
Sits winking at the license of a king,
Altho' we grant when kings are dangerous
The Church must play into the hands of kings ;
Look ! I would move this wanton from his sight
And take the Church's danger on myself.

Becket. For which she should be duly grateful.

Eleanor. True !
Tho' she that binds the bond, herself should see
That kings are faithful to their marriage vow.

Becket. Ay, Madam, and queens also.

Eleanor. And queens also !
What is your drift ?

Becket. My drift is to the Castle,
Where I shall meet the Barons and my King.

[Exit.

DE BROC, DE TRACY, DE BRITO, DE MORVILLE (passing).

Eleanor. To the Castle ?

De Broc. Ay !

Eleanor. Stir up the King, the Lords !
Set all on fire against him !

De Brito.

Ay, good Madam !

[Exeunt.

Eleanor. Fool ! I will make thee hateful to thy King.

Churl ! I will have thee frightened into France,
And I shall live to trample on thy grave.

Scene III.

The Hall in Northampton Castle.

On one side of the stage the doors of an inner Council-chamber, half open. At the bottom, the great doors of the Hall. ROGER ARCHBISHOP OF YORK, FOLIO BISHOP OF LONDON, HILARY OF CHICHESTER, BISHOP OF HEREFORD, RICHARD DE HASTINGS (Grand Prior of Templars), PHILIP DE ELEEMOSYNA (the Pope's Almoner), and others. DE BROU, FITZURSE, DE BRITO, DE MORVILLE, DE TRACY, and other BARONS assembled—a table before them. JOHN OF OXFORD, President of the Council.

Enter BECKET and HERBERT OF BOSHAM.

Becket. Where is the King?
Roger of York. Gone hawking on the Nene,
His heart so gall'd with thine ingratitude,
He will not see thy face till thou hast sign'd
These ancient laws and customs of the realm.
Thy sending back the Great Seal madden'd
him,
He all but pluck'd the bearer's eyes away.
Take heed, lest he destroy thee utterly.
Becket. Then shalt thou step into my place and sign.

Roger of York. Didst thou not promise Henry to obey

These ancient laws and customs of the realm?

Becket. Saving the honor of my order—ay.
Customs, traditions,—clouds that come and go ;
The customs of the Church are Peter's rock.

Roger of York. Saving thine order ! But King Henry sware
That, saving his King's kingship he would grant
thee

The crown itself. Saving thine order, Thomas,
Is black and white at once, and comes to nought.

O bolster'd up with stubbornness and pride,
Wilt thou destroy the Church in fighting for it.
And bring us all to shame?

Becket. Roger of York,
When I and thou were youths in Theobald's house,

Twice did thy malice and thy calumnies
Exile me from the face of Theobald.
Now I am Canterbury and thou art York.

Roger of York. And is not York the peer of Canterbury?

Did not Great Gregory bid St. Austin here
Found two archbishoprics, London and York?

Becket. What came of that? The first archbishop fled,
And York lay barren for a hundred years.

Why, by this rule, Foliot may claim the pall
For London too.

Foliot. And with good reason too,
For London had a temple and a priest
When Canterbury hardly bore a name.

Becket. The pagan temple of a pagan Rome !
The heathen priesthood of a heathen creed !
Thou goest beyond thyself in petulancy !
Who made thee London ? Who, but Canterbury ?

John of Oxford. Peace, peace, my lords, these customs are no longer
As Canterbury calls them, wandering clouds,
But by the King's command are written down,
And by the King's command, I, John of Oxford,
The President of this Council, read them.

Becket. Read !

John of Oxford (reads). "All causes of advowsons and presentations, whether between laymen or clerics, shall be tried in the King's court."

Becket. But that I cannot sign : for that would drag
The cleric before the civil judgment-seat,
And on a matter wholly spiritual.

John of Oxford. "If any cleric be accused of felony, the Church shall not protect him ; but he shall answer to the summons of the King's court to be tried therein."

Becket. And that I cannot sign.
Is not the Church the visible Lord on earth?
Shall hands that do create the Lord be bound
Behind the back like laymen-criminals?
The Lord be judged again by Pilate? No!

John of Oxford. "When a bishopric falls vacant, the King, till another be appointed, shall receive the revenues thereof."

Becket. And that I cannot sign. Is the King's treasury
A fit place for the moneys of the Church,
That be the patrimony of the poor?

John of Oxford. "And when the vacancy is to be filled up, the King shall summon the chapter of that church to court, and the election shall be made in the Chapel Royal, with the consent of our lord the King, and by the advice of his Government."

Becket. And that I cannot sign : for that would make
Our island-Church a schism from Christendom,
And weight down all free choice beneath the throne.

Foliot. And was thine own election so canonical,
Good father?

Becket. If it were not, Gilbert Foliot,
I mean to cross the sea to France and lay
My crozier in the Holy Father's hands,
And bid him recreate me, Gilbert Foliot.

Foliot. Nay ; by another of these customs thou
Wilt not be suffer'd so to cross the seas
Without the license of our lord the King.

Becket. That, too, I cannot sign.

De Broc, De Brito, De Tracy, Fitzurse, De Morville, start up—a clash of swords.

Sign and obey !

Becket. My lords, is this a combat or a council ?
Are ye my masters, or my lord the King ?
Ye make this clashing for no love o' the customs
Or constitutions, or whate'er ye call them,
But that there be among you those that hold
Lands reft from Canterbury.

De Broc. And mean to keep them,
In spite of thee !

Lords (shouting). Sign, and obey the crown !

Becket. The crown ? Shall I do less for Canterbury
Than Henry for the crown ? King Stephen gave
Many of the crown lands to those that helpt him ;
So did Matilda, the King's mother. Mark,
When Henry came into his own again,
Then he took back not only Stephen's gifts,
But his own mother's, lest the crown should be Shorn of ancestral splendor. This did Henry.
Shall I do less for mine own Canterbury ?
And thou, De Broc, that holdest Saltwood
Castle—

De Broc. And mean to hold it, or—

Becket. To have my life.

De Broc. The King is quick to anger ; if thou anger him,

We wait but the King's word to strike thee dead.

Becket. Strike, and I die the death of martyrdom ;

Strike, and ye set these customs by my death
Ringing their own death-knell thro' all the realm.

Herbert. And I can tell you, lords, ye are all as like

To lodge a fear in Thomas Becket's heart

As find a hare's form in a lion's cave.

John of Oxford. Ay, sheathe your swords, ye will displease the King.

De Broc. Why down then thou ! but an he come to Saltwood,

By God's death, thou shalt stick him like a calf !

[Sheathing his sword.]

Hilary. O my good lord, I do entreat thee—sign.

Save the King's honor here before his barons.

He hath sworn that thou shouldst sign, and now
but shuns

The semblance of defeat ; I have heard him say

He means no more ; so if thou sign, my lord,

That were but as the shadow of an assent.

Becket. 'T would seem too like the substance,
if I sign'd.

Philip de Eleemosyna. My lord, thine ear ! I have the ear of the Pope.

As thou hast honor for the Pope our master,
Have pity on him, sorely prest upon
By the fierce Emperor and his Antipope.
Thou knowest he was forced to fly to France ;
He pray'd me to pray thee to pacify
Thy King ; for if thou go against thy King,
Then must he likewise go against thy King,
And then thy King might join the Antipope,
And that would shake the Papacy as it stands.
Besides, thy King swore to our cardinals
He meant no harm nor damage to the Church.
Smooth thou his pride—thy signing is but form ;
Nay, and should harm come of it, it is the Pope

Will be to blame—not thou. Over and over
He told me thou shouldst pacify the King,
Lest there be battle between Heaven and Earth,
And Earth should get the better—for the time.
Cannot the Pope absolve thee if thou sign ?

Becket. Have I the orders of the Holy Father ?

Philip de Eleemosyna. Orders, my lord—why,
no ; for what am I ?

The secret whisper of the Holy Father.
Thou, that hast been a statesman, couldst thou always
Blurt thy free mind to the air ?

Becket. If Rome be feeble, then should I be firm.

Philip. Take it not that way—balk not the Pope's will.

When he hath shaken off the Emperor,
He heads the Church against the King with thee.

Richard de Hastings (kneeling). Becket, I am the oldest of the Templars ;
I knew thy father ; he would be mine age
Had he lived now ; think of me as thy father !
Behold thy father kneeling to thee, Becket.
Submit ; I promise thee on my salvation
That thou wilt hear no more o' the customs.

Becket. What !
Hath Henry told thee ? hast thou talk'd with him ?

Another Templar (kneeling). Father, I am the youngest of the Templars,
Look on me as I were thy bodily son,
For, like a son, I lift my hands to thee.

Philip. Wilt thou hold out for ever, Thomas Becket ?
Dost thou not hear ?

Becket (signs). Why—there then—there—I sign,
And swear to obey the customs.

Foliot. Is it thy will,
My lord Archbishop, that we too should sign ?

Becket. O ay, by that canonical obedience
Thou still hast owed thy father, Gilbert Foliot.

Foliot. Loyally and with good faith, my lord Archbishop?

Becket. O ay, with all that loyalty and good faith

Thou still hast shown thy primate, Gilbert Foliot.

[BECKET draws apart with HERBERT.

Herbert, Herbert, have I betray'd the Church?
I'll have the paper back—blot out my name.

Herbert. Too late, my lord: you see they are signing there.

Becket. False to myself—it is the will of God

To break me, prove me nothing of myself!

This Almoner hath tasted Henry's gold.

The cardinals have finger'd Henry's gold.

And Rome is venal ev'n to rottenness.

I see it, I see it.

I am no soldier, as he said—at least

No leader. Herbert, till I hear from the Pope

I will suspend myself from all my functions.

If fast and prayer, the lacerating scourge—

Foliot (from the table). My lord Archbishop, thou hast yet to seal.

Becket. First, Foliot, let me see what I have sign'd. [Goes to the table.

What, this! and this!—what! new and old together!

Seal? If a seraph shouted from the sun,
And bade me seal against the rights of the Church,

I would anathematize him. I will not seal.
[Exit with HERBERT.

Enter KING HENRY.

Henry. Where's Thomas? hath he sign'd?
show me the papers!
Sign'd and not seal'd! How's that?

John of Oxford. He would not seal.
 And when he sign'd, his face was stormy red—Shame, wrath, I know not what. He sat down
 there
 And dropt it in his hands, and then a pale-
 ness,
 Like the wan twilight after sunset, crept
 Up even to the tonsure, and he groan'd,
 "False to myself! It is the will of God!"

Henry. God's will be what it will, the man shall seal,
 Or I will seal his doom. My burgher's son—
 Nay, if I cannot break him as the prelate,
 I'll crush him as the subject. Send for him back.
 [Sits on his throne.]
 Barons and bishops of our realm of England,
 After the nineteen winters of King Stephen—
 A reign which was no reign, when none could sit
 By his own hearth in peace; when murder common
 As nature's death, like Egypt's plague, had fill'd
 All things with blood; when every doorway
 blush'd,
 Dash'd red with that unhallow'd passover;
 When every baron ground his blade in blood;
 The household dough was kneaded up with blood;

The millwheel turn'd in blood ; the wholesome plough

Lay rusting in the furrow's yellow weeds, Till famine dwarft the race—I came, your
King !

Nor dwelt alone, like a soft lord of the East,
In mine own hall, and sucking thro' fools'
ears

The flatteries of corruption—went abroad
Thro' all my counties, spied my people's ways ;

Yea, heard the churl against the baron—
yea,

And did him justice ; sat in mine own courts
Judging my judges, that had found a King
Who ranged confusions, made the twilight day—

And struck a shape from out the vague, and law

From madness. And the event—our fallows till'd,

Much corn, repeopled towns, a realm again.

So far my course, albeit not glassy-smooth,

Had prosper'd in the main, but suddenly

Jarr'd on this rock. A cleric violated

The daughter of his host, and murder'd him.

Bishops—York, London, Chichester, Westminster—

Ye haled this tonsured devil into your courts ;

But since your canon will not let you take
 Life for a life, ye but degraded him
 Where I had hang'd him. What doth hard murder care

For degradation? and that made me muse,
 Being bounden by my coronation oath
 To do men justice. Look to it, your own selves!

Say that a cleric murder'd an archbishop,
 What could ye do? Degrade, imprison
 him—

Not death for death.

John of Oxford. But I, my liege, could swear,

To death for death.

Henry. And, looking thro' my reign,
 I found a hundred ghastly murders done
 By men, the scum and offal of the Church ;
 Then, glancing thro' the story of this realm,
 I came on certain wholesome usages,
 Lost in desuetude, of my grandsire's day,
 Good royal customs—had them written fair
 For John of Oxford here to read to you.

John of Oxford. And I can easily swear to these as being
 The King's will and God's will and justice ;
 yet

I could but read a part to-day, because—

Fitzurse. Because my lord of Canterbury—

De Tracy. Ay,
This lord of Canterbury—
De Brito. As is his wont
Too much of late whene'er your royal rights
Are mooted in our councils—
Fitzurse. —made an uproar.
Henry. And Becket had my bosom on all
this ;
If ever man by bonds of gratefulness—
I raised him from the puddle of the gutter,
I made him porcelain from the clay of the city—
Thought that I knew him, err'd thro' love of
him,
Hoped, were he chosen archbishop, Church and Crown,
Two sisters gliding in an equal dance,
Two rivers gently flowing side by side—
But no !
The bird that moults sings the same song
again,
The snake that sloughs comes out a snake
again.
Snake—ay, but he that lookt a fangless
one,
Issues a venomous adder.
For he, when having doff't the Chancellor's robe—
Flung the Great Seal of England in my face—

Claim'd some of our crown lands for Canterbury—

My comrade, boon companion, my co-reveller,

The master of his master, the King's king.—

God's eyes ! I had meant to make him all but king.

Chancellor-Archbishop, he might well have sway'd

All England under Henry, the young King,

When I was hence. What did the traitor say ?

False to himself, but ten-fold false to me !

The will of God—why, then it is my will—

Is he coming ?

Messenger (entering). With a crowd of worshippers,

And holds his cross before him thro' the crowd,

As one that puts himself in sanctuary.

Henry. His cross !

Roger of York. His cross ! I'll front him, cross to cross. [Exit ROGER OF YORK.

Henry. His cross ! it is the traitor that imputes

Treachery to his King !

It is not safe for me to look upon him.

Away—with me !

Enter BECKET, holding his cross of silver before him. The BISHOPS come round him.

Hereford. The King will not abide thee with thy cross.

Permit me, my good lord, to bear it for thee,
Being thy chaplain.

Becket. No : it must protect me.

Herbert. As once he bore the standard of the Angles,

So now he bears the standard of the angels.

Foliot. I am the Dean of the province : let me bear it.

Make not thy King a traitorous murderer.

Becket. Did not your barons draw their swords against me ?

Enter ROGER OF YORK, with his cross, advancing to BECKET.

Becket. Wherefore dost thou presume to bear thy cross,
Against the solemn ordinance from Rome,
Out of thy province ?

Roger of York. Why dost thou presume,
Arm'd with thy cross, to come before the King ?
If Canterbury bring his cross to court,
Let York bear his to mate with Canterbury.

Foliot (seizing hold of BECKET's cross). Nay, nay, my lord, thou must not brave the King.
Nay, let me have it. I will have it !

Becket.

Away!
[Flinging him off.]

Foliot. He fasts, they say, this mitred Hercules !

He fast ! is that an arm of fast ? My lord, Hadst thou not sign'd, I had gone along with
thee ;

But thou the shepherd hast betray'd the sheep,
And thou art perjured, and thou wilt not seal.
As Chancellor thou wast against the Church,
Now as Archbishop goest against the King ;
For, like a fool, thou knowst no middle way.
Ay, ay ! but art thou stronger than the King ?

Becket. Strong—not in mine own self, but Heaven ; true

To either function, holding it ; and thou
Fast, scourge thyself, and mortify thy flesh,
Not spirit—thou remainest Gilbert Foliot,
A worldly follower of the worldly strong.
I, bearing this great ensign, make it clear
Under what Prince I fight.

Foliot. My lord of York,
Let us go in to the Council, where our bishops
And our great lords will sit in judgment on him.

Becket. Sons sit in judgment on their father !—
then

The spire of Holy Church may prick the graves—
Her crypt among the stars. Sign ? seal ? I promised

The King to obey these customs, not yet written,
Saving mine order ; true too, that when written,

I sign'd them—being a fool, as Foliot call'd me.
 I hold not by my signing. Get ye hence,
 Tell what I say to the King.

[Exeunt HEREFORD, FOLIOT, and other
 BISHOPS.

Roger of York. The Church will hate thee.

[Exit.

Becket. Serve my best friend and make him
 my worst foe ;
 Fight for the Church, and set the Church against
 me !

Herbert. To be honest is to set all knaves against thee.

Ah ! Thomas, excommunicate them all !

Hereford (reëntering). I cannot brook the turmoil thou hast raised.

I would, my lord Thomas of Canterbury,
 Thou wert plain Thomas and not Canterbury,
 Or that thou wouldst deliver Canterbury
 To our King's hands again, and be at peace.

Hilary (reëntering). For hath not thine ambition set the Church
 This day between the hammer and the anvil—
 Fealty to the King, obedience to thyself ?

Herbert. What say the bishops ?

Hilary. Some have pleaded for him,
 But the King rages—most are with the King ;
 And some are reeds, that one time sway to the current,

And to the wind another. But we hold
Thou art forsworn ; and no forsworn Archbishop Shall helm the Church. We therefore place ourselves

Under the shield and safeguard of the Pope,
And cite thee to appear before the Pope
And answer thine accusers. . . Art thou deaf?

Becket. I hear you. [Clash of arms.

Hilary. Dost thou hear those others?

Becket. Ay,

Roger of York (reëntering). The King's "God's eyes!" come now so thick and fast,

We fear that he may reave thee of thine own.
Come on, come on ! it is not fit for us
To see the proud Archbishop mutilated.
Say that he blind thee and tear out thy tongue.

Becket. So be it. He begins at top with me :
They crucified St. Peter downward.

Roger of York. Nay,
But for their sake who stagger betwixt thine
Appeal, and Henry's anger, yield.

Becket. Hence, Satan !

[Exit ROGER OF YORK.

Fitzurse (reëntering). My lord, the King demands three hundred marks,
Due from his castles of Berkhamstead and Eye
When thou thereof wast warden.

Becket. Tell the King
I spent thrice that in fortifying his castles.

De Tracy (reëntering). My lord, the King demands seven hundred marks, Lent at the siege of Toulouse by the King.

Becket. I led seven hundred knights and fought his wars.

De Brito (reëntering). My lord, the King demands five hundred marks,
Advanced thee at his instance by the Jews,
For which the King was bound security.

Becket. I thought it was a gift; I thought it was a gift.

Enter Lord LEICESTER (followed by BARONS and BISHOPS).

Leicester. My lord, I come unwillingly. The King
Demands a strict account of all those revenues
From all the vacant sees and abbacies
Which came into thy hands when Chancellor.

Becket. How much might that amount to, my lord Leicester?

Leicester. Some thirty—forty thousand silver marks.

Becket. Are these your customs? O my good lord Leicester,
The King and I were brothers. All I had

I lavish'd for the glory of the King ;
I shone from him, for him, his glory, his Reflection : now the glory of the Church
Hath swallow'd up the glory of the King ;
I am his no more, but hers. Grant me one day
To ponder these demands.

Leicester. Hear first thy sentence !
The King and all his lords—

Becket. Son, first hear me !

Leicester. Nay, nay, canst thou, that holdest thine estates

In fee and barony of the King, decline
The judgment of the King ?

Becket. The King ! I hold
Nothing in fee and barony of the King.
Whatever the Church owns—she holds it in Free and perpetual alms, unsubject to
One earthly sceptre.

Leicester. Nay, but hear thy judgment.
The King and all his barons—

Becket. Judgment ! Barons !
Who but the bridegroom dares to judge the bride,
Or he the bridegroom may appoint ? Not he
That is not of the house, but from the street
Stain'd with the mire thereof.

I had been so true
To Henry and mine office that the King
Would throne me in the great Archbishopric :
And I, that knew mine own infirmity,

For the King's pleasure rather than God's cause
Took it upon me—err'd thro' love of him.
Now therefore God from me withdraws Himself,
And the King too.

What! forty thousand marks!
Why thou, the King, the Pope, the Saints, the world,
Know that when made Archbishop I was freed,
Before the Prince and chief Justiciary,
From every bond and debt and obligation
Incurr'd as Chancellor.

Hear me, son.

As gold
Outvalues dross, light darkness, Abel Cain,
The soul the body, and the Church the Throne,
I charge thee, upon pain of mine anathema,
That thou obey, not me, but God in me,
Rather than Henry. I refuse to stand
By the King's censure, make my cry to the Pope,
By whom I will be judged; refer myself,
The King, these customs, all the Church, to him,
And under his authority—I depart. [Going.]

[LEICESTER looks at him doubtfully.]

Am I a prisoner?

Leicester.

By St. Lazarus, no!

I am confounded by thee. Go in peace.

De Broc. In peace now—but after. Take that for earnest.

[Flings a bone at him from the rushes.]

De Brito, Fitzurse, De Tracy, and others (flinging wisps of rushes). Ay, go in peace, caitiff, caitiff! And that too, perjured prelate—and that, turncoat shaveling! There, there, there! traitor, traitor, traitor!

Becket. Mannerless wolves!

[Turning and facing them.]

Herbert. Enough, my lord, enough!

Becket. Barons of England and of Normandy,
When what ye shake at doth but seem to fly,
True test of coward, ye follow with a yell.
But I that threw the mightiest knight of France,
Sir Engelram de Trie,—

Herbert. Enough, my lord.

Becket. More than enough. I play the fool again.

Enter HERALD.

Herald. The King commands you, upon pain of death,
That none should wrong or injure your 'Arch-bishop.

Foliot. Deal gently with the young man Absalom.

[Great doors of the Hall at the back open, and discover a crowd. They shout:]

Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord!

Scene IV.

Refectory of the Monastery at Northampton. A Banquet on the Tables.

Enter BECKET. BECKET'S RETAINERS.

First Retainer. Do thou speak first?
Second Retainer. Nay, thou! Nay,
thou!

Hast not thou drawn the short straw?

First Retainer. My lord Archbishop, wilt thou permit us—

Becket. To speak without stammering and like a free man? Ay.

First Retainer. My lord, permit us then to leave thy service.

Becket. When?

First Retainer. Now.

Becket. To-night?

First Retainer. To-night, my lord.

Becket. And why?

First Retainer. My lord, we leave thee not without tears.

Becket. Tears? Why not stay with me then?

First Retainer. My lord, we cannot yield thee an answer altogether to thy satisfaction.

Becket. I warrant you, or your own either.

Shall I find you one? The King hath frowned upon me.

First Retainer. That is not altogether our answer, my lord.

Becket. No ; yet all but all. Go, go ! Ye have eaten of my dish and drunken of my cup for a dozen years.

First Retainer. And so we have. We mean thee no wrong. Wilt thou not say, "God bless you," ere we go?

Becket. God bless you all ! God redden your pale blood ! But mine is human-red ; and when ye shall hear it is poured out upon earth, and see it mounting to Heaven, my God bless you, that seems sweet to you now, will blast and blind you like a curse.

First Retainer. We hope not, my lord. Our humblest thanks for your blessing. Farewell !

[Exeunt RETAINERS.]

Becket. Farewell, friends ! farewell, swallows ! I wrong the bird ; she leaves only the nest she built, they leave the builder. Why ? Am I to be murdered to-night ? [Knocking at the door.]

Becket. Cornwall's hand or Leicester's : they write marvellously alike. [Reading.]

"Fly at once to France, to King Louis of France : there be those about our King who would have thy blood."

Was not my lord of Leicester bidden to our supper ?

Attendant. Ay, my lord, and divers other earls and barons. But the hour is past, and our brother, Master Cook, he makes moan that all be a-getting cold.

Becket. And I make my moan along with him. Cold after warm, winter after summer, and the golden leaves, these earls and barons, that clung to me, frosted off me by the first cold frown of the King. Cold, but look how the table steams, like a heathen altar ; nay, like the altar at Jerusalem. Shall God's good gifts be wasted ? None of them here ! Call in the poor from the streets, and let them feast.

Herbert. That is the parable of our blessed Lord.

Becket. And why should not the parable of our blessed Lord be acted again ? Call in the poor ! The Church is ever at variance with the kings, and ever at one with the poor. I marked a group of lazars in the market-place—half-rag, half-sore—beggars, poor rogues (Heaven bless 'em) who never saw nor dreamed of such a banquet. I will amaze them. Call them in, I say. They shall henceforward be my earls and barons—our lords and masters in Christ Jesus.

[Exit HERBERT.]

If the King hold his purpose, I am myself a beggar. Forty thousand marks! forty thousand devils—and these craven bishops!

A Poor Man (entering) with his dog. My lord Archbishop, may I come in with my poor friend, my dog? The King's verdurer caught him a-hunting in the forest and cut off his paws. The dog followed his calling, my lord. I ha' carried him ever so many miles in my arms, and he licks my face and moans and cries out against the King.

Becket. Better thy dog than thee. The King's courts would use thee worse than thy dog—they are too bloody. Were the Church king, it would be otherwise. Poor beast! poor beast! set him down. I will bind up his wounds with my napkin. Give him a bone, give him a bone! Who misuses a dog would misuse a child—they cannot speak for themselves. Past help! his paws are past help! God help him!

Enter the BEGGARS (and seat themselves at the Tables). BECKET and HERBERT wait upon them.

First Beggar. Swine, sheep, ox—here's a French supper. When thieves fall out, honest men—

Second Beggar. Is the Archbishop a thief who gives thee thy supper?

First Beggar. Well, then, how does it go? When honest men fall out, thieves—no, it can't be that.

Second Beggar. Who stole the widow's one sitting hen o' Sunday, when she was at mass?

First Beggar. Come, come! thou hadst thy share on her. Sitting hen! Our Lord Becket's our great sitting-hen cock, and we shouldn't ha' been sitting here if the barons and bishops hadn't been a-sitting on the Archbishop.

Becket. Ay, the princes sat in judgment against me, and the Lord hath prepared your table—Sederunt principes, ederunt pauperes.

A Voice. Becket, beware of the knife!

Becket. Who spoke?

Third Beggar. Nobody, my lord. What's that, my lord?

Becket. Venison.

Third Beggar. Venison?

Becket. Buck ; deer, as you call it.

Third Beggar. King's meat ! By the Lord, won't we pray for your lordship !

Becket. And, my children, your prayers will do more for me in the day of peril that dawns darkly and drearily over the house of God—yea, and in the day of judgment also, than the swords of the craven sycophants would have done had they remained true to me whose bread they have partaken. I must leave you to your banquet. Feed, feast, and be merry. Herbert, for the sake of the Church itself, if not for my own, I must fly to France to-night. Come with me.

[Exit with HERBERT.]

Third Beggar. Here—all of you—my lord's health (they drink). Well—if that isn't goodly wine—

First Beggar. Then there isn't a goodly wench to serve him with it : they were fighting for her to-day in the street.

Third Beggar. Peace !

First Beggar.

The black sheep baaed to the miller's ewe lamb,

The miller's away for to-night.

Black sheep, quoth she, too black a sin for me.

And what said the black sheep, my masters ?

We can make a black sin white.

Third Beggar. Peace !

First Beggar.

“Ewe lamb, ewe lamb, I am here by the dafn.”

But the miller came home that night,
And so dusted his back with the meal in his sack,
That he made the black sheep white.

Third Beggar. Be we not of the family? be we not a-supping with the head of the family? be we not in my lord's own refractory? Out from among us; thou art our black sheep.

Enter the four KNIGHTS.

Fitzurse. Sheep, said he? And sheep without the shepherd, too. Where is my lord Archbishop? Thou the lustiest and lousiest of this Cain's brotherhood, answer.

Third Beggar. With Cain's answer, my lord. Am I his keeper? Thou shouldst call him Cain, not me.

Fitzurse. So I do, for he would murder his brother the State.

Third Beggar (rising and advancing). No, my lord; but because the Lord hath set his mark upon him that no man should murder him.

Fitzurse. Where is he? where is he?

Third Beggar. With Cain belike, in the land of Nod, or in the land of France for aught I know.

Fitzurse. France! Ha! De Morville, Tracy,

Brito—fled is he? Cross swords all of you! swear to follow him! Remember the Queen!

[The four KNIGHTS cross their swords.

De Brito. They mock us; he is here.

[All the BEGGARS rise and advance upon them.

Fitzurse. Come, you filthy knaves, let us pass.

Third Beggar. Nay, my lord, let us pass. We be a-going home after our supper in all humbleness, my lord; for the Archbishop loves humbleness, my lord; and though we be fifty to four, we daren't fight you with our crutches, my lord. There now, if thou hast not laid hands upon me! and my fellows know that I am all one scale like a fish. I pray God I haven't given thee my leprosy, my lord.

[FITZURSE shrinks from him, and another presses upon DE BRITO.

De Brito. Away, dog!

Fourth Beggar. And I was bit by a mad dog o' Friday, an' I be half dog already by this token, that tho' I can drink wine I cannot bide water, my lord; and I want to bite, I want to bite, and they do say the very breath catches.

De Brito. Insolent clown. Shall I smite him with the edge of the sword?

De Morville. No, nor with the flat of it either. Smite the shepherd and the sheep are scattered. Smite the sheep and the shepherd will excommunicate thee.

De Brito. Yet my fingers itch to beat him into nothing.

Fifth Beggar. So do mine, my lord. I was born with it, and sulphur won't bring it out o' me. But for all that the Archbishop washed my feet o' Tuesday. He likes it, my lord.

Sixth Beggar. And see here, my lord, this rag fro' the gangrene i' my leg. It's humbling—it smells o' human natur'. Wilt thou smell it, my lord? for the Archbishop likes the smell on it, my lord; for I be his lord and master i' Christ, my lord.

De Morville. Faugh! we shall all be poisoned. Let us go. [They draw back, BEGGARS following.]

Seventh Beggar. My lord, I ha' three sisters a-dying at home o' the sweating sickness. They be dead while I be a-supping.

Eighth Beggar. And I ha' nine darters i' the spital that be dead ten times o'er i' one day wi' the putrid fever; and I bring the taint on it along wi' me, for the Archbishop likes it, my lord. [Pressing upon the KNIGHTS till they disappear through the door.]

Third Beggar. Crutches, and itches, and leprosies, and ulcers, and gangrenes, and running sores, praise ye the Lord, for to-night ye have saved our Archbishop!

First Beggar. I'll go back again. I hain't half done yet.

Herbert of Bosham (entering). My friends, the Archbishop bids you good-night. He hath retired to rest, and being in great jeopardy of his life, he hath made his bed between the altars, from whence he sends me to bid you this night pray for him who hath fed you in the wilderness.

Third Beggar. So we will—so we will, I warrant thee. Becket shall be king, and the Holy Father shall be king, and the world shall live by the King's venison and the bread o' the Lord, and there shall be no more poor forever. Hurrah! Vive le Roy! That's the English of it.

Scene I.

ROSAMUND'S Bower. A Garden of Flowers. In the midst a bank of wild-flowers with a bench before it.

Voices heard singing among the trees.

Duet.

1. Is it the wind of the dawn that I hear in the pine overhead ?
2. No ; but the voice of the deep as it hollows the cliffs of the land.
1. Is there a voice coming up with the voice of the deep from the strand,
One coming up with a song in the flush of the glimmering red ?
2. Love that is born of the deep coming up with the sun from the sea.
1. Love that can shape or can shatter a life till the life shall have fled ?
2. Nay, let us welcome him, Love that can lift up a life from the dead.

1. Keep him away from the lone little isle. Let us be, let us be.
2. Nay, let him make it his own, let him reign in it—he, it is he,
Love that is born of the deep coming up with the sun
from the sea.

Enter HENRY and ROSAMUND.

Rosamund. Be friends with him again—I do beseech thee.

Henry. With Becket? I have but one hour with thee—

Sceptre and crozier clashing, and the mitre
Grappling the crown—and when I flee from this
For a gasp of freer air, a breathing-while
To rest upon thy bosom and forget him—
Why thou, my bird, thou pipest Becket, Becket—
Yea, thou my golden dream of Love's own bower,
Must be the nightmare breaking on my peace
With "Becket."

Rosamund. O my life's life, not to smile
Is all but death to me. My sun, no cloud!
Let there not be one frown in this one hour.
Out of the many thine, let this be mine!
Look rather thou all-royal as when first
I met thee.

Henry. Where was that?

Rosamund. Forgetting that Forgets me too.

Henry. Nay, I remember it well.
There on the moors.

Rosamund. And in a narrow path.
A plover flew before thee. Then I saw
Thy high black steed among the flaming furze,
Like sudden night in the main glare of day.
And from that height something was said to
me
I knew not what.

Henry. I ask'd the way.

Rosamund. I think so.
So I lost mine.

Henry. Thou wast too shamed to answer.

Rosamund. Too scared—so young!

Henry. The rosebud of my rose!—
Well, well, no more of him—I have sent his folk,
His kin, all his belongings, overseas;
Age, orphans, and babe-breasting mothers—all
By hundreds to him—there to beg, starve, die—
So that the fool King Louis feed them not.
The man shall feel that I can strike him yet.

Rosamund. Babes, orphans, mothers! is that royal, Sire?

Henry. And I have been as royal with the Church.

He shelter'd in the Abbey of Pontigny.
There wore his time studying the canon law
To work it against me. But since he cursed
My friends at Veselay, I have let them know,

That if they keep him longer as their guest,
I scatter all their cowls to all the hells.

Rosamund. And is that altogether royal?

Henry. Traitor!

Rosamund. A faithful traitress to thy royal fame.

Henry. Fame! what care I for fame? Spite, ignorance, envy,

Yea, honesty too, paint her what way they will.

Fame of to-day is infamy to-morrow;

Infamy of to-day is fame to-morrow;

And round and round again. What matters?

Royal—

I mean to leave the royalty of my crown

Unlessen'd to mine heirs.

Rosamund. Still—thy fame too:

I say that should be royal.

Henry. And I say,

I care not for thy saying.

Rosamund. And I say,

I care not for thy saying. A greater King

Than thou art, Love, who cares not for the word,

Makes "care not"—care. There have I spoken true?

Henry. Care dwell with me forever, when I cease

To care for thee as ever!

Rosamund. No need! no need! . . .

There is a bench. Come, wilt thou sit? . . .

My bank

Henry. I bade them clear
A royal pleasaunce for thee, in the wood,
Not leave these countryfolk at court.

Rosamund. I brought them
In from the wood, and set them here. I love them

More than the garden flowers, that seem at most

Sweet guests, or foreign cousins, not half speaking

The language of the land. I love them too,
Yes. But, my liege, I am sure, of all the roses—
Shame fall on those who gave it a dog's name—
This wild one (picking a brier-rose)—nay, I shall not prick myself—

Is sweetest. Do but smell !

Henry. Thou rose of the world !
Thou rose of all the roses ! [Muttering.

I am not worthy of her—this beast-body
That God has plunged my soul in—I, that taking
The Fiend's advantage of a throne, so long
Have wander'd among women,—a foul stream
Thro' fever-breeding levels,—at her side,
Among these happy dales, run clearer, drop
The mud I carried, like yon brook, and glass
The faithful face of heaven—

[Looking at her, and unconsciously aloud,
—thine ! thine !

Rosamund. I know it.

Henry (muttering). Not hers. We have but one bond, her hate of Becket.

Rosamund (half-hearing). Nay! nay! what art thou muttering? I hate Becket?

Henry (muttering). A sane and natural loathing for a soul

Purer, and truer and nobler than herself;
And mine a bitterer illegitimate hate,
A bastard hate born of a former love.

Rosamund. My fault to name him! O let the hand of one

To whom thy voice is all her music, stay it
But for a breath. [Puts her hand before his lips.
Speak only of thy love.

Why there—like some loud beggar at thy gate—
The happy boldness of this hand hath won it
Love's alms, thy kiss (looking at her hand)—

Sacred! I'll kiss it, too. [Kissing it.

There! wherefore dost thou so peruse it? Nay,
There may be crosses in my line of life.

Henry. Not half her hand—no hand to mate with her,

If it should come to that.

Rosamund. With her? with whom?

Henry. Life on the hand is naked gipsy-stuff;
Life on the face, the brows—clear innocence!
Vein'd marble—not a furrow yet—and hers

[Muttering.

Crosth and recrosth, a venomous spider's web—

Rosamund (springing up). Out of the cloud, my Sun—out of the eclipse
Narrowing my golden hour !

Henry. O Rosamund,
I would be true—would tell thee all—and something

I had to say—I love thee none the less—
Which will so vex thee.

Rosamund. Something against me ?

Henry. No, no, against myself.

Rosamund. I will not hear it.
Come, come, mine hour ! I bargain for mine hour.

I'll call thee little Geoffrey.

Henry. Call him !

Rosamund. Geoffrey !

Enter GEOFFREY.

Henry. How the boy grows !

Rosamund. Ay, and his brows are thine ;
The mouth is only Clifford, my dear father.

Geoffrey. My liege, what hast thou brought me ?

Henry. Venal imp !
What say'st thou to the Chancellorship of England ?

Geoffrey. O yes, my liege.

Henry. "O yes, my liege !" He speaks
As if it were a cake of gingerbread.

Dost thou know, my boy, what it is to be Chancellor of England?

Geoffrey. Something good, or thou wouldst not give it to me.

Henry. It is, my boy, to side with the King when Chancellor, and then to be made Archbishop and go against the King who made him, and turn the world upside down.

Geoffrey. I won't have it then. Nay, but give it me, and I promise thee not to turn the world upside down.

Henry (giving him a ball). Here is a ball, my boy, thy world, to turn any way and play with as thou wilt—which is more than I can do with mine. Go play it, play. [Exit GEOFFREY.]

A pretty lusty boy.

Rosamund. So like to thee ;
Like to be liker.

Henry. Not in my chin, I hope !
That threatens double.

Rosamund. Thou art manlike perfect.

Henry. Ay, ay, no doubt ; and were I humpt behind,
Thou'dst say as much—the goodly way of women
Who love, for which I love them. May God grant
No ill befall or him or thee when I Am gone.

Rosamund. Is he thy enemy?

Henry. He? who? ay!

Rosamund. Thine enemy knows the secret of my bower.

Henry. And I could tear him asunder with wild horses

Before he would betray it. Nay—no fear!

More like is he to excommunicate me.

Rosamund. And I would creep, crawl over knife-edge flint

Barefoot, a hundred leagues, to stay his hand

Before he flash'd the bolt.

Henry. And when he flash'd it Shrink from me, like a daughter of the Church.

Rosamund. Ay, but he will not.

Henry. Ay! but if he did?

Rosamund. O then! O then! I almost fear to say

That my poor heretic heart would excommuni-cate

His excommunication, clinging to thee

Closer than ever.

Henry (raising ROSAMUND and kissing her).

My brave-hearted Rose!

Hath he ever been to see thee?

Rosamund. Here? not he.

And it is so lonely here—no confessor.

Henry. Thou shalt confess all thy sweet sins to me.

Rosamund. Besides, we came away in such a heat,

I brought not ev'n my crucifix.

Henry. Take this.

[Giving her the Crucifix which ELEANOR gave him.]

Rosamund. O beautiful! May I have it as mine, till mine

Be mine again?

Henry (throwing it round her neck). Thine—
as I am—till death!

Rosamund. Death? no! I'll have it with me in my shroud,

And wake with it, and show it to all the Saints.

Henry. Nay—I must go; but when thou layest thy lip

To this, remembering One who died for thee,

Remember also one who lives for thee

Out there in France; for I must hence to brave

The Pope, King Louis, and this turbulent priest.

Rosamund (kneeling). O by thy love for me,
all mine for thee,

Fling not thy soul into the flames of hell;

I kneel to thee—be friends with him again.

Henry. Look, look! if little Geoffrey have not tost
His ball into the brook! makes after it too
To find it. Why, the child will drown himself.

Rosamund. Geoffrey!
Geoffrey! [Exeunt.

Scene II.

Montmirail. "The Meeting of the Kings."

JOHN OF OXFORD and HENRY. Crowd in the distance.

John of Oxford. You have not crown'd young Henry yet, my liege?

Henry. Crown'd! by God's eyes, we will not have him crown'd.

I spoke of late to the boy, he answer'd me,

As if he wore the crown already—No,

We will not have him crown'd.

'Tis true what Becket told me, that the mother Would make him play his kingship against mine.

John of Oxford. Not have him crown'd?

Henry. Not now—not yet! and Becket—Becket should crown him were he crown'd at all: But, since we would be lord of our own manor, This Canterbury, like a wounded deer, Has fled our presence and our feeding-grounds.

John of Oxford. Cannot a smooth tongue lick him whole again To serve your will?

Henry. He hates my will, not me.

John of Oxford. There's York, my liege.

Henry. But England scarce would hold
 Young Henry king, if only crown'd by York,
 And that would stilt up York to twice himself.
 There is a movement yonder in the crowd—
 See if our pious—what shall I call him, John?—
 Husband-in-law, our smooth-shorn suzerain,
 Be yet within the field.

John of Oxford. I will. [Exit.

Henry. Ay! Ay!
 Mince and go back! his politic Holiness
 Hath all but climb'd the Roman perch again,
 And we shall hear him presently with clapt wing
 Crow over Barbarossa—at last tongue-free
 To blast my realms with excommunication
 And interdict. I must patch up a peace—
 A piece in this long-tugged at, threadbare-worn Quarrel of Crown and Church—to rend again.
 His Holiness cannot steer straight thro' shoals,
 Nor I. The citizen's heir hath conquer'd me
 For the moment. So we make our peace with him.

Enter LOUIS.

Brother of France, what shall be done with Becket?

Louis. The holy Thomas! Brother, you have traffick'd

Between the Emperor and the Pope, between
 The Pope and Antipope—a perilous game
 For men to play with God.

Henry. Ay, ay, good brother,
They call you the Monk-King.

Louis. Who calls me? she
That was my wife, now yours? You have her
Duchy,
The point you aimed at, and pray God she prove
True wife to you. You have had the better of us
In secular matters.

Henry. Come, confess, good brother,
You did your best or worst to keep her
Duchy.

Only the golden Leopard printed in it
Such hold-fast claws that you perforce again
Shrank into France. Tut, tut! did we convene
This conference but to babble of our wives?
They are plagues enough in-door.

Louis. We fought in the East,
And felt the sun of Antioch scald our mail,
And push'd our lances into Saracen hearts.
We never hounded on the State at home
To spoil the Church.

Henry. How should you see this rightly?

Louis. Well, well, no more! I am proud of my "Monk-King,"

Whoever named me; and, brother, Holy Church
May rock, but will not wreck, nor our Archbishop

Stagger on the slope decks for any rough sea

Blown by the breath of kings. We do forgive you

For aught you wrought against us.

[HENRY holds up his hand.

Nay, I pray you,

Do not defend yourself. You will do much
To rake out all old dying heats, if you,
At my requesting, will but look into
The wrongs you did him, and restore his kin,
Reseat him on his throne of Canterbury,
Be, both, the friends you were.

Henry.

The friends we were !

Co-mates we were, and had our sport together,
Co-kings we were, and made the laws together.
The world had never seen the like before.
You are too cold to know the fashion of it.
Well, well, we will be gentle with him, gracious—
Most gracious.

Enter BECKET, after him, JOHN OF OXFORD, ROGER OF YORK, GILBERT FOLIOT, DE BROU, FITZ-URSE, etc.

Only that the rift he made
May close between us, here I am wholly king.
The word should come from him.

Becket (kneeling). Then, my dear liege,
I here deliver all this controversy
Into your royal hands.

Henry. Ah, Thomas, Thomas,
Thou art thyself again, Thomas again.

Becket. (rising). Saving God's honor !

Henry. Out upon thee, man !
Saving the Devil's honor, his yes and no.
Knights, bishops, earls, this London spawn—by Mahound,
I had sooner have been born a Mussulman—

Less clashing with their priests—
I am half-way down the slope—will no man stay
me?

I dash myself to pieces—I stay myself—
Puff—it is gone. You, Master Becket, you
That owe to me your power over me—

Nay, nay—

Brother of France, you have taken, cherish'd him
Who thief-like fled from his own church by night,
No man pursuing. I would have had him back.
Take heed he do not turn and rend you too :
For whatsoever may displease him—that
Is clean against God's honor—a shift, a trick
Whereby to challenge, face me out of all My regal rights. Yet, yet—that none may dream

I go against God's honor—ay, or himself
In any reason, choose
A hundred of the wisest heads from England,
A hundred, too, from Normandy and Anjou :
Let these decide on what was customary
In olden days, and all the Church of France
Decide on their decision, I am content.
More, what the mightiest and the holiest
Of all his predecessors may have done
Ev'n to the least and meanest of my own,
Let him do the same to me—I am content.

Louis. Ay, ay! the King humbles himself enough.

Becket (aside). Words! he will wriggle out of them like an eel
When the time serves. (Aloud.) My lieges and my lords,
The thanks of Holy Church are due to those
That went before us for their work, which we Inheriting reap an easier harvest. Yet—

Louis. My lord, will you be greater than the Saints,
More than St. Peter? whom—what is it you doubt?
Behold your peace at hand.

Becket. I say that those Who went before us did not wholly clear
The deadly growths of earth, which Hell's own heat
So dwelt on that they rose and darken'd Heaven.
Yet they did much. Would God they had torn up all
By the hard root, which shoots again; our trial
Had so been less; but, seeing they were men
Defective or excessive, must we follow
All that they overdid or underdid?
Nay, if they were defective as St. Peter
Denying Christ, who yet defied the tyrant.
We hold by his defiance, not his defect.
O good son Louis, do not counsel me,
No, to suppress God's honor for the sake
Of any king that breathes. No, God forbid!

Henry. No ! God forbid ! and turn me Mussulman !

No God but one, and Mahound is his prophet.
But for your Christian, look you, you shall have

None other God but me—me, Thomas, son
Of Gilbert Becket, London merchant. Out !

I hear no more ! [Exit.

Louis. Our brother's anger puts him,
Poor man, beside himself—not wise. My lord,
We have claspt your cause, believing that our brother

Had wrong'd you ; but this day he proffer'd peace.

You will have war ; and tho' we grant the Church
King over this world's kings, yet, my good
lord,

We that are kings are something in this world,
And so we pray you, draw yourself from under
The wings of France. We shelter you no more.

[Exit.

John of Oxford. I am glad that France hath scouted him at last :

I told the Pope what manner of man he was.

[Exit.

Roger of York. Yea, since he flouts the will of either realm,

Let either cast him away like a dead dog !

[Exit

Foliot. Yea, let a stranger spoil his heritage,
And let another take his bishopric ! [Exit.

De Broc. Our castle, my lord, belongs to Canterbury.

I pray you come and take it. [Exit.

Fitzurse. When you will. [Exit.

Becket. Cursed be John of Oxford, Roger of York,

And Gilbert Foliot ! cursed those De Brocs
That hold our Saltwood Castle from our see !
Cursed Fitzurse, and all the rest of them
That sow this hate between my lord and
me !

Voices from the Crowd. Blessed be the Lord Archbishop, who hath withstood two Kings to their faces for the honor of God.

Becket. Out of the mouths of babes and sucklings, praise !

I thank you, sons ; when kings but hold by crowns,

The crowd that hungers for a crown in Heaven
Is my true king.

Herbert. Thy true King bade thee be
A fisher of men ; thou hast them in thy net.

Becket. I am too like the King here ; both of us

Too headlong for our office. Better have been
A fisherman at Bosham, my good Herbert,
Thy birthplace—the sea-creek—the petty rill

That falls into it—the green field—the gray church—

The simple lobster-basket, and the mesh—

The more or less of daily labor done—

The pretty gaping bills in the home-nest

Piping for bread—the daily want supplied—

The daily pleasure to supply it.

Herbert.

Ah, Thomas,

You had not borne it, no, not for a day.

Becket. Well, maybe, no.

Herbert.

But bear with Walter Map,

For here he comes to comment on the time.

Enter WALTER MAP.

Walter Map. Pity, my lord, that you have quenched the warmth of France toward you, tho' His Holiness, after much smouldering and smoking, be kindled again upon your quarter.

Becket. Ay, if he do not end in smoke again.

Walter Map. My lord, the fire, when first kindled, said to the smoke, "Go up, my son, straight to Heaven." And the smoke said, "I go;" but anon the Northeast took and turned him Southwest, then the Southwest turned him Northeast, and so of the other winds; but it was in him to go up straight if the time had been quieter. Your lordship affects the unwavering perpendicular; but His Holiness, pushed one way by the Empire and another by England, if he move at all, Heaven stay him, is fain to diagonalize.

Herbert. Diagonalize ! thou art a word-monger !
Our Thomas never will diagonalize.
Thou art a jester and a verse-maker.
Diagonalize !

Walter Map. Is the world any the worse for my verses if the Latin rhymes be rolled out from a full mouth ? or any harm done to the people if my jest be in defence of the Truth ?

Becket. Ay, if the jest be so done that the people
Delight to wallow in the grossness of it,
Till Truth herself be shamed of her defender.

Non defensoribus istis, Walter Map.

Walter Map. Is that my case ? so if the city be sick, and I cannot call the kennel sweet, your lordship would suspend me from verse-writing, as you suspended yourself after sub-writing to the customs.

Becket. I pray God pardon mine infirmity !

Walter Map. Nay, my lord, take heart ; for tho' you suspended yourself, the Pope let you down again ; and tho' you suspended Foliot or another, the Pope will not leave them in suspense, for the Pope himself is always in suspense, like Mahound's coffin hung between heaven and earth —always in suspense, like the scales, till the weight of Germany or the gold of England brings one of them down to the dust—always in suspense, like the tail of the horologe—to and fro—tick-tack—we make the time, we keep the time, ay, and we serve the time; for I have heard say that if you boxed the Pope's ears with a purse, you might stagger him, but he would pocket the purse. No saying of mine—Jocelyn of Salisbury. But the King hath bought half the College of Red-hats. He warmed to you to-day, and you have chilled him again. Yet you both love God. Agree with him quickly again, even for the sake of the Church. My one grain of good counsel which you will not swallow. I hate a split between old friendships as I hate the dirty gap in the face of a Cistercian monk, that will swallow anything. Farewell.

[Exit.

Becket. Map scoffs at Rome. I all but hold with Map.

Save for myself no Rome were left in England,
All had been his. Why should this Rome, this
Rome,

Still choose Barabbas rather than the Christ,
Absolve the left-hand thief and damn the right?
Take fees of tyranny, wink at sacrilege,
Which even Peter had not dared? condemn
The blameless exile?—

Herbert. Thee, thou holy Thomas!
I would that thou hadst been the Holy Father.

Becket. I would have done my most to keep Rome holy,
I would have made Rome know she still is
Rome—

Who stands aghast at her eternal self
And shakes at mortal kings—her vacillation,
Avarice, craft—O God, how many an innocent
Has left his bones upon the way to Rome
Unwept, uncared for. Yea—on mine own self
The King had had no power except for Rome.
'Tis not the King who is guilty of mine exile,
But Rome, Rome, Rome !

Herbert. My lord, I see this Louis
Returning, ah ! to drive thee from his realm.

Becket. He said as much before. Thou art
no prophet,
Nor yet a prophet's son.

Herbert. Whatever he say,
Deny not thou God's honor for a king.
The King looks troubled.

Reënter KING LOUIS.

Louis. My dear lord Archbishop,
I learn but now that those poor Poitevins,
That in thy cause were stirr'd against King Henry,
Have been, despite his kingly promise given
To our own self of pardon, evilly used
And put to pain. I have lost all trust in him.

The Church alone hath eyes—and now I see
That I was blind—suffer the phrase—surrendering

God's honor to the pleasure of a man.

Forgive me and absolve me, holy father. [Kneels.

Becket. Son, I absolve thee in the name of God.

Louis (rising). Return to Sens, where we will care for you.

The wine and wealth of all our France
are yours ;

Rest in our realm,
and be at peace
with all.

[Exeunt.

Voices from the Crowd.

Long live the good King

Louis ! God bless the great Archbishop !

Reënter HENRY and JOHN OF OXFORD.

Henry (looking after KING LOUIS and BECKET).

Ay, there they go—both backs are turned to me—

Why then I strike into my former path
For England, crown young Henry there, and make

Our waning Eleanor all but love me !

John,
Thou hast served me heretofore with Rome—and well.

They call thee John the Swearer.

John of Oxford. For this reason,
That, being ever duteous to the King,
I evermore have sworn upon his side,
And ever mean to do it.

Henry (claps him on the shoulder). Honest
John !

To Rome again ! the storm begins again.
Spare not thy tongue ! be lavish with our coins, Threaten our junction with the Emperor—flatter
And fright the Pope—bribe all the Cardinals—leave

Lateran and Vatican in one dust of gold—
Swear and unswear, state and misstate thy best !
I go to have young Henry crown'd by York.

Scene I.

The Bower.

HENRY and ROSAMUND.

Henry. All that you say is just. I cannot answer it

Till better times, when I shall put away—

Rosamund. What will you put away?

Henry. That which you ask me
Till better times. Let it content you now
There is no woman that I love so well.

Rosamund. No woman but should be content with that—

Henry. And one fair child to fondle !

Rosamund. O yes, the child
We waited for so long—Heaven's gift at last—
And how you doated on him then ! To-day
I almost fear'd your kiss was colder—yes—
But then the child is such a child. What chance

That he should ever spread into the man
Here in our silence? I have done my best.
I am not learn'd.

Henry. I am the King, his father.
And I will look to it. Is our secret ours?
Have you had any alarm? no stranger?

Rosamund. No.
The warder of the bower hath given himself
Of late to wine. I sometimes think he sleeps
When he should watch; and yet what fear? the people
Believe the wood enchanted. No one comes,
Nor foe nor friend; his fond excess of wine
Springs from the loneliness of my poor bower,
Which weighs even on me.

Henry. Yet these tree-towers,
Their long bird-echoing minster-aisles,—the voice
Of the perpetual brook, these golden slopes
Of Solomon-shaming flowers—that was your saying,
All pleased you so at first.

Rosamund. Not now so much.
My Anjou bower was scarce as beautiful.
But you were oftener there. I have none but you.

The brook's voice is not yours, and no flower, not
The sun himself, should he be changed to one,
Could shine away the darkness of that gap
Left by the lack of love!

Henry. The lack of love !

Rosamund. Of one we love. Nay, I would not be bold,
Yet hoped ere this you might—

[Looks earnestly at him.

Henry. Anything further ?

Rosamund. Only my best bower-maiden died of late,
And that old priest whom John of Salisbury trusted
Hath sent another.

Henry. Secret ?

Rosamund. I but ask'd her
One question, and she primm'd her mouth and put
Her hands together—thus—and said, God help her,
That she was sworn to silence.

Henry. What did you ask her ?

Rosamund. Some daily something-nothing.

Henry. Secret, then ?

Rosamund. I do not love her. Must you go,
my liege,
So suddenly ?

Henry. I came to England suddenly,
And on a great occasion sure to wake
As great a wrath in Becket—

Rosamund. Always Becket !
He always comes between us.

Henry. —And to meet it
I needs must leave as suddenly. It is raining,
Put on your hood and see me to the bounds.

[Exeunt.

Margery (singing behind scene).

Babble in bower
Under the rose!
Bee mustn't buzz,
Whoop—but he knows.

Kiss me, little one,
Nobody near!
Grasshopper, grasshopper,
Whoop—you can hear.

Kiss in the bower,
Tit on the tree!
Bird mustn't tell,
Whoop—he can see.

Enter MARGERY.

I ha' been but a week here and I ha' seen what I ha' seen, for to be sure it's no more than a week since our old Father Philip that has confessed our mother for twenty years, and she was hard put to it, and to speak truth, nigh at the end of our last crust, and that mouldy, and she cried out on him to put me forth in the world and to make me a woman of the world, and to win my own bread, whereupon he asked our mother if I could keep a quiet tongue i' my head, and not speak till I was spoke to, and I answered for myself that I never spoke more than was needed, and he told me he would advance me to the service of a great lady, and took me ever so far away, and gave me a great pat o' the cheek for a pretty wench, and said it was a pity to blindfold such eyes as mine, and such to be sure they be, but he blinded 'em for all that, and so brought me no-hows as I may say, and the more shame to him after his promise, into a garden and not into the world, and bade me whatever I saw not to speak one word, an' it 'ud be well for me in the end, for there were great ones who would look after me, and to be sure I ha' seen great ones to-day—and then not to speak on'e word, for that's the rule o' the garden, tho' to be sure if I had been Eve i' the garden I shouldn't ha' minded the apple, for what's an apple, you know, save to a child, and I'm no child, but more a woman o' the world than my lady here, and I ha' seen what I ha' seen—tho' to be sure if I hadn't minded it we should all on us ha' had to go, bless the Saints, wi' bare backs, but the backs 'ud ha' countenanced one another, and belike it 'ud ha' been always summer, and anyhow I am as well-shaped as my lady here, and I ha' seen what I ha' seen, and what's the good of my talking to myself, for here comes my lady (Enter ROSAMUND), and, my lady, tho' I shouldn't speak one word, I wish you joy o' the King's brother.

Rosamund. What is it you mean?

Margery. I mean your goodman, your husband, my lady, for I saw your ladyship a-parting wi' him even now i' the coppice, when I was a-getting o' bluebells for your ladyship's nose to smell on—and I ha' seen the King once at Oxford, and he's as like the King as finger-nail to finger-nail, and I thought at first it was the King, only you know the King's married, for King Louis—

Rosamund. Married!

Margery. Years and years, my lady, for her husband, King Louis—

Rosamund. Hush!

Margery.—And I thought if it were the King's brother he had a better bride than the King, for the people do say that his is bad beyond all reckoning, and—

Rosamund. The people lie.

Margery. Very like, my lady, but most on 'em know an honest woman and a lady when they see her, and besides they say, she makes songs, and that's against her, for I never knew an honest woman that could make songs, tho' to be sure our mother 'ill sing me old songs by the hour, but then, God help her, she had 'em from her mother, and her mother from her mother back and back for ever so long, but none on 'em ever made songs, and they were all honest.

Rosamund. Go, you shall tell me of her some other time.

Margery. There's none so much to tell on her, my lady, only she kept the seventh commandment better than some I know on, or I couldn't look your ladyship i' the face, and she brew'd the best ale in all Glo'ster, that is to say in her time when she had the "Crown."

Rosamund. The crown! who?

Margery. Mother.

Rosamund. I mean her whom you call—fancy—my husband's brother's wife.

Margery. Oh, Queen Eleanor. Yes, my lady; and tho' I be sworn not to speak a word, I can tell you all about her, if—Rosamund. No word now. I am faint and sleepy. Leave me. Nay—go.

What! will you anger me? [Exit MARGERY.

He charged me not to question any of those

About me. Have I? no! she question'd me.

Did she not slander him? Should she stay here?

May she not tempt me, being at my side,

To question her? Nay, can I send her hence

Without his kindly leave? I am in the dark.

I have lived, poor bird, from cage to cage, and known

Nothing but him—happy to know no more,

So that he loved me—and he loves me—yes,

And bound me by his love to secrecy

Till his own time.

Eleanor, Eleanor, have I
Not heard ill things of her in France? Oh, she's
The Queen of France. I see it—some confusion,
Some strange mistake. I did not hear aright,
Myself confused with parting from the King.
Margery (behind scene).

Bee mustn't buzz,
Whoop—but he knows.

Rosamund. Yet her—what her? he hinted of some her—
When he was here before—Something that would displease me. Hath he stray'd
From love's clear path into the common bush,
And, being scratch'd, returns to his true rose,
Who hath not thorn enough to prick him for it,
Ev'n with a word?
Margery (behind scene).

Bird mustn't tell,
Whoop—he can see.

Rosamund. I would not hear him. Nay—
there's more—he frowned

“No mate for her, if it should come to that”—
To that—to what?

Margery (behind scene).

Whoop—but he knows,
Whoop—but he knows.

Rosamund. O God! some dreadful truth is breaking on me—
Some dreadful thing is coming on me.

Enter GEOFFREY.

Geoffrey!

Geoffrey. What are you crying for, when the sun shines?

Rosamund. Hath not thy father left us to ourselves?

Geoffrey. Ay, but he's taken the rain with him. I hear Margery: I'll go play with her.

[Exit GEOFFREY.

Rosamund.

Rainbow, stay,
Gleam upon gloom,
Bright as my dream,
Rainbow, stay!
But it passes away,
Gloom upon gleam,
Dark as my doom—
O rainbow, stay.

Scene II.

Outside the Woods near ROSAMUND'S Bower.

ELEANOR. FITZURSE.

Eleanor. Up from the salt lips of the land we two
Have track'd the King to this dark inland wood ;

And somewhere hereabouts he vanish'd. Here
His turtle builds : his exit is our adit :
Watch ! he will out again, and presently,
Seeing he must to Westminster and crown
Young Henry there to-morrow.

Fitzurse. We have watch'd
So long in vain, he hath pass'd out again,
And on the other side. [A great horn winded.
Hark ! Madam !

Eleanor. Ay,
How ghostly sounds that horn in the black wood !
[A Countryman flying.
Whither away, man ? what are you flying from ?

Countryman. The witch ! the witch ! she sits naked by a great heap of gold in the middle of the wood, and when the horn sounds she comes out as a wolf. Get you hence ! a man passed in there to-day : I holla'd to him, but he didn't hear me : he'll never out again, the witch has got him. I daren't stay—I daren't stay !

Eleanor. Kind of the witch to give thee warning tho'. [Man flies.

Is not this wood-witch of the rustic's fear
Our woodland Circe that hath witch'd the King ?

[Horn sounded. Another flying.

Fitzurse. Again ! stay, fool, and tell me why thou fliest.

Countryman. Fly thou too. The King keeps his forest head of game here, and when that horn sounds, a score of wolf-dogs are let loose that will tear thee piecemeal. Linger not till the third horn. Fly ! [Exit.

Eleanor. This is the likelier tale. We have hit the place.

Now let the King's fine game look to itself.

[Horn.

Fitzurse. Again !—

And far on in the dark heart of the wood
I hear the yelping of the hounds of hell.

Eleanor. I have my dagger here to still their throats.

Fitzurse. Nay, Madam, not to-night — the night is falling.

What can be done to-night ?

Eleanor. Well—well—away.

Scene III.

Traitor's Meadow at Fréteval. Pavilions and tents of the English and French Baronage.

BECKET and HERBERT OF BOSHAM.

Becket. See here !

Herbert. What's here ?

Becket. A notice from the priest,
To whom our John of Salisbury committed
The secret of the bower, that our wolf-Queen
Is prowling round the fold. I should be back
In England ev'n for this.

Herbert. These are by-things
In the great cause.

Becket. The by-things of the Lord
Are the wrong'd innocences that will cry
From all the hidden by-ways of the world
In the great day against the wronger. I know
Thy meaning. Perish she, I, all, before
The Church should suffer wrong !

Herbert. Do you see, my lord,
There is the King talking with Walter Map ?

Becket. He hath the Pope's last letters, and they threaten
The immediate thunder-blast of interdict :

Yet he can scarce be touching upon those,
Or scarce would smile that fashion.

Herbert. Winter sunshine !

Beware of opening out thy bosom to it,
Lest thou, myself, and all thy flock should catch
An after ague-fit of trembling. Look !
He bows, he bares his head, he is coming hither,
Still with a smile.

Enter KING HENRY and WALTER MAP.

Henry. We have had so many hours together,
Thomas,
So many happy hours alone together,
That I would speak with you once more alone.

Becket. My liege, your will and happiness are mine. [Exeunt KING and BECKET.

Herbert. The same smile still.

Walter Map. Do you see that great black cloud that hath come over the sun and cast us all into shadow ?

Herbert. And feel it too.

Walter Map. And see you yon side-beam that is forced from under it, and sets the church-tower over there all a-hell-fire, as it were ?

Herbert. Ay.

Walter Map. It is this black, bell-silencing, anti-marrying, burial-hindering interdict that hath squeezed out this side-smile upon Canterbury, whereof may come conflagration. Were I Thomas, I wouldn't trust it. Sudden change is a house on sand; and tho' I count Henry honest enough, yet when fear creeps in at the front, honesty steals out at the back, and the King at last is fairly scared by this cloud—this interdict. I have been more for the King than the Church in this matter—yea, even for the sake of the Church: for, truly, as the case stood, you had safelier have slain an archbishop than a she-goat: but our recoverer and upholder of customs hath in this crowning of young Henry by York and London so violated the immemorial usage of the Church, that, like the grave-digger's child I have heard of, trying to ring the bell, he hath half-hanged himself in the rope of the Church, or rather pulled all the Church with the Holy Father astride on it down upon his own head.

Herbert. Were you there?

Walter Map. In the church rope?—no. I was at the crowning, for I have pleasure in the pleasure of crowds, and to read the faces of men at a great show.

Herbert. And how did Roger of York comport himself?

Walter Map. As magnificently and archiepiscopally as our Thomas would have done; only there was a dare-devil in his eye—I should say a dare-Becket. He thought less of two kings than of one Roger, the king of the occasion. Foliot is the holier man, perhaps the better. Once or twice there ran a twitch across his face, as who should say what's to follow? but Salisbury was a calf cowed by Mother Church, and every now and then glancing about him like a thief at night when he hears a door open in the house and thinks "the master."

Herbert. And the father-king?

Walter Map. The father's eye was so tender it would have called a goose off the green, and once he strove to hide his face, like the Greek king when his daughter was sacrificed, but he thought better of it: it was but the sacrifice of a kingdom to his son, a smaller matter; but as to the young crownling himself, he looked so malapert in the eyes, that had I fathered him I had given him more of the rod than the sceptre. Then followed the thunder of the captains and the shouting, and so we came on to the banquet, from whence there puffed out such an incense of unctuousity into the nostrils of our Gods of Church and State, that Lucullus or Apicius might have sniffed it in their Hades of heathenism, so that the smell of their own roast had not come across it—

Herbert. Map, tho' you make your butt too big, you overshoot it.

Walter Map. —For as to the fish, they demiracled the miraculous draught, and might have sunk a navy—

Herbert. There again, Goliazing and Goliathizing !

Walter Map. —And as for the flesh at table, a whole Peter's sheet, with all manner of game, and four-footed things, and fowls—

Herbert. And all manner of creeping things too?

Walter Map. —Well, there were Abbots—but they did not bring their women ; and so we were dull enough at first, but in the end we flourished out into a merriment ; for the old King would act servitor and hand a dish to his son ; whereupon my Lord of York—his fine-cut face bowing and beaming with all that courtesy which hath less loyalty in it than the backward scrape of the clown's heel—"great honor," says he, "from the King's self to the King's son." Did you hear the young King's quip ?

Herbert. No, what was it ?

Walter Map. Glancing at the days when his father was only Earl of Anjou, he answered : "Should not an earl's son wait on a king's son ?" And when the cold corners of the King's mouth began to thaw, there was a great motion of laughter among us, part real, part childlike, to be freed from the dulness—part royal, for King and kingling both laughed, and so we could not but laugh, as by a royal necessity—part childlike again—when we felt we had laughed too long and could not stay ourselves—many midriff-shaken even to tears, as springs gush out after earthquakes—but from those, as I said before, there may come a conflagration—tho', to keep the figure moist and make it hold water, I should say rather, the lachrymation of a lamentation; but look if Thomas have not flung himself at the King's feet. They have made it up again—for the moment.

Herbert. Thanks to the blessed Magdalen, whose day it is.

Reënter HENRY and BECKET. (During their conference the BARONS and BISHOPS of FRANCE and ENGLAND come in at back of stage.)

Becket. Ay, King! for in thy kingdom, as thou knowest,
The spouse of the Great King, thy King, hath fallen—
The daughter of Zion lies beside the way—
The priests of Baal tread her underfoot—
The golden ornaments are stolen from her—

Henry. Have I not promised to restore her,
Thomas,
And send thee back again to Canterbury?

Becket. Send back again those exiles of my kin
Who wander famine-wasted thro' the world.

Henry. Have I not promised, man, to send them back?

Becket. Yet one thing more. Thou hast broken thro' the pales
Of privilege, crowning thy young son by York,
London, and Salisbury—not Canterbury.

Henry. York crown'd the Conqueror—not Canterbury.

Becket. There was no Canterbury in William's time.

Henry. But Hereford, you know, crown'd the first Henry.

Becket. But Anselm crown'd this Henry o'er
again.

Henry. And thou shalt crown my Henry o'er
again.

Becket. And is it then with thy good-will that I
Proceed against thine evil councillors,
And hurl the dread ban of the Church on those Who made the second mitre play the first,
And acted me?

Henry. Well, well, then—have thy way!
It may be they were evil councillors.
What more, my lord Archbishop? What more,
Thomas?
I make thee full amends. Say all thy say,
But blaze not out before the Frenchmen here.

Becket. More? Nothing, so thy promise be thy deed.

Henry (holding out his hand). Give me thy hand. My Lords of France and England, My friend of Canterbury and myself Are now once more at perfect amity. Unkingly should I be, and most unknighly, Not striving still, however much in vain, To rival him in Christian charity.

Herbert. All praise to Heaven, and sweet St. Magdalen!

Henry. And so farewell until we meet in England.

Becket. I fear, my liege, we may not meet in England.

Henry. How, do you make me a traitor?

Becket. No, indeed!
That be far from thee.

Henry. Come, stay with us, then,
Before you part for England.

Becket. I am bound
For that one hour to stay with good King Louis,
Who helpt me when none else.

Herbert. He said thy life
Was not one hour's worth in England save
King Henry gave thee first the kiss of peace.

Henry. He said so? Louis, did he? look you, Herbert.
When I was in mine anger with King Louis,

I swear I would not give the kiss of peace,
Not on French ground, nor any ground but English,
Where his cathedral stands. Mine old friend,
Thomas,
I would there were that perfect trust between us,
That health of heart, once ours, ere Pope or
King
Had come between us! Even now — who knows?—

I might deliver all things to thy hand—
If . . . but I say no more . . . farewell, my lord.

Becket. Farewell, my liege!

[Exit HENRY, then the BARONS and BISHOPS.]

Walter Map. There again! when the full fruit of the royal promise might have dropt into thy mouth hadst thou but opened it to thank him.

Becket. He fenced his royal promise with an if.

Walter Map. And is the King's if too high a stile for your lordship to overstep and come at all things in the next field?

Becket. Ay, if this if be like the Devil's "if Thou wilt fall down and worship me."

Herbert. Oh, Thomas,
I could fall down and worship thee, my Thomas,
For thou hast trodden this wine-press alone.

Becket. Nay, of the people there are many with me.

Walter Map. I am not altogether with you, my lord, tho' I am none of those that would raise a storm between you, lest ye should draw together like two ships in a calm. You wrong the King: he meant what he said to-day. Who shall vouch for his to-morrows? One word further. Doth not the fewness of anything make the fullness of it in estimation? Is not virtue prized mainly for its rarity, and great baseness loathed as an exception: for were all, my lord, as noble as yourself, who would look up to you? and were all as base as—who shall I say—Fitzurse and his following—who would look down upon them? My lord, you have put so many of the King's household out of communion, that they begin to smile at it.

Becket. At their peril, at their peril—

Walter Map. —For tho' the drop may hollow out the dead stone, doth not the living skin thicken against perpetual whippings? This is the second grain of good counsel I ever proffered thee, and so cannot suffer by the rule of frequency. Have I sown it in salt? I trust not, for before God I promise you the King hath many more wolves than he can tame in his woods of England, and if it suit their purpose to howl for the King, and you still move against him, you may have no less than to die for it ; but God and his free wind grant your lordship a happy home-return and the King's kiss of peace in Kent. Farewell ! I must follow the King. [Exit.

Herbert. Ay, and I warrant the customs. Did the King
Speak of the customs ?

Becket. No !—to die for it—
I live to die for it, I die to live for it.
The State will die, the Church can never die.
The King's not like to die for that which dies ;
But I must die for that which never dies.
It will be so—my visions in the Lord :
It must be so, my friend ! the wolves of England
Must murder her one shepherd, that the sheep May feed in peace. False figure, Map would say.

Earth's falses are heaven's truths. And when my voice

Is martyr'd mute, and this man disappears,
That perfect trust may come again between us,
And there, there, there, not here, I shall rejoice
To find my stray sheep back within the fold.
The crowd are scattering, let us move away !
And thence to England. [Exeunt.

Scene I.

The Outskirts of the Bower.

Geoffrey (coming out of the wood). Light again! light again! Margery? no, that's a finer thing there. How it glitters!

Eleanor (entering). Come to me, little one. How camest thou hither?

Geoffrey. On my legs.

Eleanor. And mighty pretty legs, too. Thou art the prettiest child I ever saw. Wilt thou love me?

Geoffrey. No; I only love mother.

Eleanor. Ay; and who is thy mother?

Geoffrey. They call her—But she lives secret, you see.

Eleanor. Why?

Geoffrey. Don't know why.

Eleanor. Ay, but some one comes to see her now and then. Who is he?

Geoffrey. Can't tell.

Eleanor. What does she call him?

Geoffrey. My liege.

Eleanor. Pretty one, how camest thou?

Geoffrey. There was a bit of yellow silk here and there, and it looked pretty like a glowworm, and I thought if I followed it I should find the fairies.

Eleanor. I am the fairy, pretty one, a good fairy to thy mother. Take me to her.

Geoffrey. There are good fairies and bad fairies, and sometimes she cries, and can't sleep sound o' nights, because of the bad fairies.

Eleanor. She shall cry no more ; she shall sleep sound enough if thou wilt take me to her. I am her good fairy.

Geoffrey. But you don't look like a good fairy. Mother does. You are not pretty, like mother.

Eleanor. We can't all of us be as pretty as thou art—(aside) little bastard. Come, here is a golden chain I will give thee if thou wilt lead me to thy mother.

Geoffrey. No—no gold. Mother says gold spoils all. Love is the only gold.

Eleanor. I love thy mother, my pretty boy. Show me where thou camest out of the wood.

Geoffrey. By this tree ; but I don't know if I can find the way back again.

Eleanor. Where's the warder ?

Geoffrey. Very bad. Somebody struck him.

Eleanor. Ay ? who was that ?

Geoffrey. Can't tell. But I heard say he had had a stroke, or you'd have heard his horn before now. Come along, then ; we shall see the silk here and there, and I want my supper. [Exeunt.

Scene II.

ROSAMUND'S Bower.

Rosamund. The boy so late ; pray God, he be not lost.

I sent this Margery, and she comes not back ;

I sent another, and she comes not back ;
I go myself—so many alleys, crossings,
Paths, avenues—nay, if I lost him, now
The folds have fallen from the mystery,
And left all naked, I were lost indeed.

Enter GEOFFREY and ELEANOR.

Geoffrey, the pain thou hast put me to !

[Seeing ELEANOR.

Ha, you !

How came you hither ?

Eleanor. Your own child brought me hither !

Geoffrey. You said you couldn't trust Margery, and I watched her and followed her into the woods, and I lost her and went on and on till I found the light and the lady, and she says she can make you sleep o' nights.

Rosamund. How dared you? Know you not this bower is secret,
Of and belonging to the King of England,
More sacred than his forests for the chase?
Nay, nay, Heaven help you; get you hence in haste
Lest worse befall you.

Eleanor. Child, I am mine own self
Of and belonging to the King. The King Hath divers ofs and ons, ofs and belongings,
Almost as many as your true Mussulman—
Belongings, paramours, whom it pleases him
To call his wives; but so it chances, child,
That I am his main paramour, his sultana.
But since the fondest pair of doves will jar,
Ev'n in a cage of gold, we had words o'
late,
And thereupon he call'd my children bastards.
Do you believe that you are married to
him?

Rosamund. I should believe it.

Eleanor. You must not believe it,
Because I have a wholesome medicine here
Puts that belief asleep. Your answer, beauty!
Do you believe that you are married to
him?

Rosamund. Geoffrey, my boy, I saw the ball you lost in the fork of the great willow over the brook. Go. See that you do not fall in. Go.

Geoffrey. And leave you alone with the good fairy. She calls you beauty, but I don't like her looks. Well, you bid me go, and I'll have my ball anyhow. Shall I find you asleep when I come back?

Rosamund. Go. [Exit GEOFFREY.

Eleanor. He is easily found again. Do you believe it?

I pray you then to take my sleeping-draught;
But if you should not care to take it—see!

[Draws a dagger.

What! have I scared the red rose from your face

Into your heart? But this will find it there,

And dig it from the root forever.

Rosamund. Help! help!

Eleanor. They say that walls have ears; but these, it seems,

Have none—and I have none to pity thee.

Rosamund. I do beseech you—my child is so young,

So backward too; I cannot leave him yet.

I am not so happy I could not die myself,
But the child is so young. You have children—his;

And mine is the King's child ; so, if you love
him—
Nay, if you love him, there is great wrong done
Somehow ; but if you do not—there are those
Who say you do not love him—let me go
With my young boy, and I will hide my face,
Blacken and gipsyfy it ; none shall know
me ;
The King shall never hear of me again,
But I will beg my bread along the world
With my young boy, and God will be our guide.
I never meant you harm in any way.
See, I can say no more.

Eleanor. Will you not say you are not married to him ?

Rosamund. Ay, Madam, I can say it, if you will.

Eleanor. Then is thy pretty boy a bastard ?

Rosamund. No.

Eleanor. And thou thyself a proven wanton ?

Rosamund. No.

I am none such. I never loved but one.
I have heard of such that range from love to
love,

Like the wild beast—if you can call it love.
I have heard of such—yea, even among those
Who sit on thrones—I never saw any such,
Never knew any such, and howsoever
You do misname me, match'd with any such,
I am snow to mud.

Eleanor. The more the pity then
That thy true home—the heavens—cry out for thee
Who art too pure for earth.

Enter FITZURSE.

Fitzurse. Give her to me.

Eleanor. The Judas-lover of our passion-play
Hath track'd us hither.

Fitzurse. Well, why not? I follow'd
You and the child: he babbled all the way.

Give her to me to make my honeymoon.

Eleanor. Ay, as the bears love honey.
Could you keep her
Indungeon'd from one whisper of the wind,
Dark even from a side glance of the moon,
And oublietted in the centre—No!
I follow out my hate and thy revenge.

Fitzurse. You bade me take revenge another way—
To bring her to the dust. . . . Come with me,
love,
And I will love thee. . . . Madam, let her live.

I have a far-off burrow where the King
Would miss her and forever.

Eleanor. How sayst thou, sweetheart?
Wilt thou go with him? he will marry thee.

Rosamund. Give me the poison; set me free of him! [ELEANOR offers the vial.
No, no! I will not have it.

Eleanor. Then this other,
The wiser choice, because my sleeping-draught
May bloat thy beauty out of shape, and
make
Thy body loathsome even to thy child;
While this but leaves thee with a broken heart,
A doll-face blanch'd and bloodless, over which
If pretty Geoffrey do not break his own,
It must be broken for him.

Rosamund. O I see now
Your purpose is to fright me—a troubadour
You play with words. You had never used so many,
Not if you meant it, I am sure. The child . . .
No . . . mercy! No! [Kneels.

Eleanor. Play! . . . that bosom never Heaved under the King's hand with such true passion

As at this loveless knife that stirs the riot,
Which it will quench in blood! Slave, if he love
thee,

Thy life is worth the wrestle for it: arise,
And dash thyself against me that I may slay
thee!

The worm! shall I let her go? But ha! what's here?

By very God, the cross I gave the King!
His village darling in some lewd caress
Has wheedled it off the King's neck to her own.

By thy leave, beauty. Ay, the same! I warrant Thou hast sworn on this my cross a hundred times

Never to leave him—and that merits death,
False oath on holy cross—for thou must leave
him

To-day, but not quite yet. My good Fitzurse,
The running down the chase is kindlier sport Ev'n than the death. Who knows but that thy lover

May plead so pitifully, that I may spare
thee?

Come hither, man; stand there. (To Rosamund.)
Take thy one chance;

Catch at the last straw. Kneel to thy lord
Fitzurse ;
Crouch even because thou hatest him ; fawn upon him
For thy life and thy son's.

Rosamund (rising). I am a Clifford,
My son a Clifford and Plantagenet.
I am to die then, tho' there stand beside thee
One who might grapple with thy dagger, if he Had aught of man, or thou of woman ; or I Would bow to such a baseness as would make
me

Most worthy of it : both of us will die,
And I will fly with my sweet boy to heaven,
And shriek to all the saints among the stars :
“ Eleanor of Aquitaine, Eleanor of England !
Murder'd by the adulteress Eleanor,
Whose doings are a horror to the east,
A hissing in the west ! ” Have we not heard
Raymond of Poitou, thine own uncle—nay, Geoffrey Plantagenet, thine own husband's father—

Nay, ev'n the accursed heathen Saladdeen—Strike !

I challenge thee to meet me before God.
Answer me there.

Eleanor (raising the dagger). This in thy bosom, fool,
And after in thy bastard's !

Enter BECKET from behind. Catches hold of her arm.

Becket. Murderess !

[The dagger falls ; they stare at one another. After a pause.]

Eleanor. My lord, we know you proud of your fine hand,

But having now admired it long enough,
We find that it is mightier than it seems—
At least mine own is frailer : you are laming it.

Becket. And lamed and maim'd to dislocation, better

Than raised to take a life which Henry bade me Guard from the stroke that dooms thee after death

To wail in deathless flame.

Eleanor. Nor you, nor I
Have now to learn, my lord, that our good Henry Says many a thing in sudden heats, which he Gainsays by next sunrising—often ready
To tear himself for having said as much
My lord, Fitzurse—

Becket. He too ! what dost thou here ?
Dares the bear slouch into the lion's den ?
One downward plunge of his paw would rend
away
Eyesight and manhood, life itself, from thee.

Go, lest I blast thee with anathema,
And make thee a world's horror.

Fitzurse. My lord, I shall Remember this.

Becket. I do remember thee ;
Lest I remember thee to the lion, go.

[Exit FITZURSE.
Take up your dagger ; put it in the sheath.

Eleanor. Might not your courtesy stoop to hand it me ?

But crowns must bow when mitres sit so high.
Well—well—too costly to be left or lost.

[Picks up the dagger.
I had it from an Arab soldan, who,
When I was there in Antioch, marvell'd at
Our unfamiliar beauties of the west ;
But wonder'd more at my much constancy
To the monk-king, Louis, our former burden,
From whom, as being too kin, you know, my
lord,

God's grace and Holy Church deliver'd us.
I think, time given, I could have talk'd him out of

His ten wives into one. Look at the hilt.
What excellent workmanship. In our poor west
We cannot do it so well.

Becket. We can do worse.
Madam, I saw your dagger at her throat ;
I heard your savage cry.

Eleanor.

Well acted, was it?

A comedy meant to seem a tragedy—
A feint, a farce. My honest lord, you are known Thro' all the courts of Christendom as one
That mars a cause with over-violence.
You have wrong'd Fitzurse. I speak not of myself.

We thought to scare this minion of the King
Back from her churchless commerce with the King
To the fond arms of her first love, Fitzurse, Who swore to marry her. You have spoilt the farce.

My savage cry? Why, she—she—when I strove
To work against her license for her good,
Bark'd out at me such monstrous charges, that
The King himself, for love of his own sons,
If hearing, would have spurn'd her ; whereupon
I menaced her with this, as when we threaten
A yelper with a stick. Nay, I deny not
That I was somewhat anger'd. Do you hear me?
Believe or no, I care not. You have lost
The ear of the King. I have it. . . . My Lord
Paramount,

Our great High-priest, will not your Holiness
Vouchsafe a gracious answer to your Queen?

Becket. Rosamund hath not answer'd you one word ;

Madam, I will not answer you one word.

Daughter, the world hath trick'd thee. Leave it,
daughter,
Come thou with me to Godstow nunnery,
And live what may be left thee of a life
Saved as by miracle alone with Him
Who gave it.

Reënter GEOFFREY.

Geoffrey. Mother, you told me a great fib: it wasn't in the willow.

Becket. Follow us, my son, and we will find it for thee—

Or something manlier.

[Exeunt BECKET ROSAMUND and
GEOFFREY.

Eleanor. The world hath trick'd her—that's the King; if so,

There was the farce, the feint—not mine. And
yet

I am all but sure my dagger was a feint
Till the worm turn'd—not life shot up in blood,
But death drawn in;—(looking at the vial) this was no feint then? no.

But can I swear to that, had she but given
Plain answer to plain query? nay, methinks
Had she but bow'd herself to meet the wave
Of humiliation, worshipt whom she loathed
I should have let her be, scorn'd her too much
To harm her. Henry—Becket tells him this—

To take my life might lose him Aquitaine.
Too politic for that. Imprison me?
No, for it came to nothing—only a feint.
Did she not tell me I was playing on her?
I'll swear to mine own self it was a feint.

Why should I swear, Eleanor,
who am, or was,
A sovereign power? The King plucks out their eyes

Who anger him, and shall not
I, the Queen,
Tear out her heart—kill, kill with knife or venom
One of his slanderous harlots?
“None of such?”

I love her none the more.
Tut, the chance gone,
She lives—but not for him;
one point is gain'd.

O I, that thro' the Pope divorced King Louis,
Scorning his monkery,—I that wedded Henry,

Honoring his manhood—will he not mock at me
The jealous fool balk'd of her will—with him?
But he and he must never meet again.
Reginald Fitzurse '

Reënter FITZURSE.

Fitzurse. Here, Madam, at your pleasure.

Eleanor. My pleasure is to have a man about me.

Why did you slink away so like a cur?

Fitzurse. Madam, I am as much man as the King.

Madam, I fear Church-censures like your King.

Eleanor. He grovels to the Church when he's black-blooded,

But kinglike fought the proud archbishop,—king-like

Defied the Pope, and, like his kingly sires,

The Normans, striving still to break or bind

The spiritual giant with our island laws

And customs, made me for the moment proud

Ev'n of that stale Church-bond which link'd me with him

To bear him kingly sons. I am not so sure

But that I love him still. Thou as much man!

No more of that; we will to France and be

Beforehand with the King, and brew from out

This Godstow-Becket intermeddling such

A strong hate-philtre as may madden him—madden
Against his priest beyond all hellebore.

Scene I.

Castle in Normandy. King's Chamber.

HENRY, ROGER OF YORK, FOLIOT, JOCELYN OF
SALISBURY.

Roger of York. Nay, nay, my liege,
He rides abroad with armed followers,
Hath broken all his promises to thyself,
Cursed and anathematized us right and left,
Stirr'd up a party there against your son—

Henry. Roger of York, you always hated him,
Even when you both were boys at Theobald's.

Roger of York. I always hated boundless arrogance.

In mine own cause I strove against him there,
And in thy cause I strive against him now.

Henry. I cannot think he moves against my son,
Knowing right well with what a tenderness
He loved my son.

Roger of York. Before you made him king.
But Becket ever moves against a king.
The Church is all—the crime to be a king.
We trust your Royal Grace, lord of more
land

Than any crown in Europe, will not yield
To lay your neck beneath your citizen's heel.

Henry. Not to a Gregory of my throning!
No.

Foliot. My royal liege, in aiming at your love,
It may be sometimes I have overshot
My duties to our Holy Mother Church,
Tho' all the world allows I fall no inch
Behind this Becket, rather go beyond
In scourgings, macerations, mortifyings,
Fasts, disciplines that clear the spiritual eye,
And break the soul from earth. Let all that be.

I boast not: but you know thro' all this quarrel
I still have cleaved to the crown, in hope the crown

Would cleave to me that but obey'd the
crown,

Crowning your son; for which our loyal service,

And since we likewise swore to obey the
customs,
York and myself, and our good Salisbury
here,
Are push'd from out communion of the Church.

Jocelyn of Salisbury. Becket hath trodden on us like worms, my liege ;
Trodden one half dead ; one half, but half alive,
Cries to the King.

Henry (aside). Take care o' thyself, O King.
Jocelyn of Salisbury. Being so crush'd and so humiliated

We scarcely dare to bless the food we eat
Because of Becket.

Henry. What would ye have me do ?

Roger of York. Summon your barons ; take their counsel : yet

I know — could swear — as long as Becket
breathes,

Your Grace will never have one quiet hour.

Henry. What ? . . . Ay . . . but pray you do not work upon me.

I see your drift . . . it may be so . . . and yet
You know me easily anger'd. Will you hence ?
He shall absolve you . . . you shall have redress.
I have a dizzying headache. Let me rest.
I'll call you by and by.

[Exeunt ROGER OF YORK, FOLIOT, and] JOCELYN OF SALISBURY.

Would he were dead ! I have lost all love for
him.

If God would take him in some sudden way—

Would he were dead. [Lies down.]

Page (entering). My liege, the Queen of England.

Henry. God's eyes ! [Starting up.]

Enter ELEANOR.

Eleanor. Of England ? Say of Aquitaine.
I am no Queen of England. I had dream'd
I was the bride of England, and a queen.

Henry. And,—while you dream'd you were the bride of England,—
Stirring her baby-king against me ? ha !

Eleanor. The brideless Becket is thy king and mine :

I will go live and die in Aquitaine.

Henry. Except I clap thee into prison here,
Lest thou shouldst play the wanton there again.
Ha, you of Aquitaine ! O you of Aquitaine !
You were but Aquitaine to Louis—no wife ;
You are only Aquitaine to me—no wife.

Eleanor. And why, my lord, should I be wife to one

That only wedded me for Aquitaine ?
Yet this no wife—her six and thirty sail
Of Provence blew you to your English throne ;
And this no wife has borne you four brave sons,

And one of them at least is like to prove
Bigger in our small world than thou art.

Henry. Ay—

Richard, if he be mine—I hope him mine.
But thou art like enough to make him thine.

Eleanor. Becket is like enough to make all his.

Henry. Methought I had recover'd of the
Becket,

That all was planed and bevell'd smooth again,
Save from some hateful cantrip of thine own.

Eleanor. I will go live and die in Aquitaine.
I dream'd I was the consort of a king,
Not one whose back his priest has broken.

Henry. What !
Is the end come ? You, will you crown my foe
My victor in mid-battle ? I will be Sole master of my house. The end is mine.
What game, what juggle, what devilry are you playing ?
Why do you thrust this Becket on me again ?
Eleanor. Why ? for I am true wife, and have my fears
Lest Becket thrust you even from your throne.
Do you know this cross, my liege ?
Henry (turning his head). Away ! not I.
Eleanor. Not ev'n the central diamond, worth,
I think,
Half of the Antioch whence I had it ?
Henry. That ?
Eleanor. I gave it you, and you your paramour ;
She sends it back, as being dead to earth,
So dead henceforth to you.
Henry. Dead ! you have murder'd her.
Found out her secret bower and murder'd her.
Eleanor. Your Becket knew the secret of your bower.
Henry (calling out). Ho there ! thy rest of life is hopeless prison.
Eleanor. And what would my own Aquitaine say to that ?
First free thy captive from her hopeless prison.

Henry. O devil, can I free her from the grave?

Eleanor. You are too tragic : both of us are players

In such a comedy as our court of Provence
Had laugh'd at. That's a delicate Latin lay
Of Walter Map : the lady holds the cleric
Lovelier than any soldier, his poor tonsure
A crown of Empire. Will you have it again?

(Offering the cross. He dashes it down.)

St. Cupid, that is too irreverent.

Then mine once more. (Puts it on.)

Your cleric hath your lady.

Nay, what uncomely faces, could he see you !

Foam at the mouth because King Thomas,
lord

Not only of your vassals but amours,
Thro' chastest honor of the Decalogue,
Hath used the full authority of his Church
To put her into Godstow nunnery.

Henry. To put her into Godstow nunnery !
He dared not—liar ! yet, yet I remember—
I do remember.

He bade me put her into a nunnery—
Into Godstow, into Hellstow, Devilstow !
The Church ! the Church !

God's eyes ! I would the Church were down in hell !

[Exit.]

Eleanor. Aha !

Enter the four KNIGHTS.

Fitzurse. What made the King cry out so furiously ?

Eleanor. Our Becket, who will not absolve the Bishops.

I think ye four have cause to love this Becket.

Fitzurse. I hate him for his insolence to all.

De Tracy. And I for all his insolence to thee.

De Brito. I hate him for I hate him is my reason,

And yet I hate him for a hypocrite.

De Morville. I do not love him, for he did his best

To break the barons, and now braves the King.

Eleanor. Strike, then, at once ; the King would have him—See !

Reënter HENRY.

Henry. No man to love me, honor me, obey me !

Sluggards and fools !

The slave that eat my bread has kick'd his King !

The dog I crammed with dainties worried me !

The fellow that on a lame jade came to court,

A ragged cloak for saddle—he, he, he,

To shake my throne, to push into my chamber—

My bed, where ev'n the slave is private—he—

I'll have her out again, he shall absolve
The Bishops—they but did my will—not you—
Sluggards and fools, why do you stand and stare?
You are no king's men—you—you—you are Becket's men.

Down with King Henry! up with the Archbishop!

Will no man rid me from this pestilent priest?

[Exit.

[The KNIGHTS draw their swords.

Eleanor. Are ye king's men? I am king's woman, I.

The Knights. King's men! King's men!

Scene II.

A Room in Canterbury Monastery.

BECKET and JOHN OF SALISBURY.

Becket. York said so?
John of Salisbury. Yes: a man may take good counsel

Ev'n from his foe.

Becket. York will say anything.
What is he saying now? gone to the King
And taken our anathema with him. York!
Can the King de-anathematize this York?

John of Salisbury. Thomas, I would thou hadst return'd to England,
Like some wise prince of this world from his wars,
With more of olive-branch and amnesty
For foes at home—thou hast raised the world
against thee.

Becket. Why, John, my kingdom is not of this world.

John of Salisbury. If it were more of this world it might be
More of the next. A policy of wise pardon Wins here as well as there. To bless thine enemies—

Becket. Ay, mine, not Heaven's.

John of Salisbury. And may there not be something

Of this world's leaven in thee too, when crying
On Holy Church to thunder out her rights
And thine own wrong so pitilessly. Ah,
Thomas,

The lightnings that we think are only Heaven's
Flash sometimes out of earth against the heavens.
The soldier, when he lets his whole self go
Lost in the common good, the common wrong,
Strikes truest ev'n for his own self. I crave
Thy pardon—I have still thy leave to speak.
Thou hast waged God's war against the King;
and yet

We are self-uncertain creatures, and we may,
Yea, even when we know not, mix our spites
And private hates with our defence of Heaven.

Enter EDWARD GRIM.

Becket. Thou art but yesterday from Cambridge, Grim;
What say ye there of Becket?

Grim. I believe him
The bravest in our roll of Primates down
From Austin—there are some—for there are men
Of canker'd judgment everywhere—

Becket. Who hold
With York, with York against me.

Grim. Well, my lord,
A stranger monk desires access to you.

Becket. York against Canterbury, York against
God !

I am open to him. [Exit GRIM.]

Enter ROSAMUND as a Monk.

Rosamund. Can I speak with you
Alone, my father ?

Becket. Come you to confess ?

Rosamund. Not now.

Becket. Then speak ; this is my other self,
Who like my conscience never lets me be.

Rosamund (throwing back the cowl). I know him ; our good John of Salisbury.

Becket. Breaking already from thy novitiate
To plunge into this bitter world again—
These wells of Marah. I am grieved, my daughter.

I thought that I had made a peace for thee.

Rosamund. Small peace was mine in my novitiate, father.

Thro' all closed doors a dreadful whisper crept
That thou wouldst excommunicate the King.
I could not eat, sleep, pray : I had with me

The monk's disguise thou gavest me for my
bower :

I think our Abbess knew it and allow'd it.

I fled, and found thy name a charm to get me

Food, roof, and rest. I met a robber once,

I told him I was bound to see the Archbishop ;

" Pass on," he said, and in thy name I pass'd

From house to house. In one a son stone-blind

Sat by his mother's hearth : he had gone too far
Into the King's own woods ; and the poor
mother,

Soon as she learnt I was a friend of thine,

Cried out against the cruelty of the King.

I said it was the King's courts, not the King ;

But she would not believe me, and she wish'd

The Church were king : she had seen the Archbishop once,

So mild, so kind. The people love thee, father.

Becket. Alas ! when I was Chancellor to the King,

I fear I was as cruel as the King.

Rosamund. Cruel ? Oh, no—it is the law, not he ;

The customs of the realm.

Becket. The customs ! customs !

Rosamund. My lord, you have not excommunicated him ?

Oh, if you have, absolve him !

Becket. Daughter, daughter,
Deal not with things you know not.

Rosamund. I know him.
Then you have done it, and I call you cruel.

John of Salisbury. No, daughter, you mistake our good Archbishop ;
For once in France the King had been so harsh,
He thought to excommunicate him—Thomas,
You could not—old affection master'd you,
You falter'd into tears.

Rosamund. God bless him for it.

Becket. Nay, make me not a woman, John of Salisbury,
Nor make me traitor to my holy office.
Did not a man's voice ring along the aisle,
"The King is sick and almost unto death."
How could I excommunicate him then ?

Rosamund. And wilt thou excommunicate him now ?

Becket. Daughter, my time is short. I shall not do it.
And were it longer—well—I should not do it.

Rosamund. Thanks in this life, and in the life to come.

Becket. Get thee back to thy nunnery with all haste ;
Let this be thy last trespass. But one question—

How fares thy pretty boy, the little Geoffrey?
No fever, cough, croup, sickness?

Rosamund. No, but saved
From all that by our solitude. The plagues
That smite the city spare the solitudes.

Becket. God save him from all sickness of the soul!

Thee too, thy solitude among thy nuns,
May that save thee! Doth he remember me?

Rosamund. I warrant him.

Becket. He is marvellously like thee.

Rosamund. Liker the King.

Becket. No, daughter.

Rosamund. Ay, but wait
Till his nose rises; he will be very king.

Becket. Ev'n so: but think not of the King:
farewell!

Rosamund. My lord, the city is full of armed men.

Becket. Ev'n so: farewell!

Rosamund. I will but pass to vespers,
And breathe one prayer for my liege-lord the
King,
His child and mine own soul, and so return.

Becket. Pray for me too: much need of prayer have I.

[ROSAMUND kneels and goes.
Dan John, how much we lose, we celibates,
Lacking the love of woman and of child.

John of Salisbury. More gain than loss ; for of your wives you shall Find one a slut whose fairest linen seems Foul as her dust-cloth, if she used it—one

So charged with tongue, that every thread of thought
 Is broken ere it joins—a shrew to boot,

Whose evil song far on into the night
 Thrills to the topmost tile—no hope but death ;
 One slow, fat, white, a burden of the hearth ;
 And one that being thwarted ever swoons
 And weeps herself into the place of power ;
 And one an uxor pauperis Ibyci.

So rare the household honeymaking bee,
Man's help ! but we, we have the Blessed Virgin
For worship, and our Mother Church for bride ;
And all the souls we saved and father'd here
Will greet us as our babes in Paradise.

What noise was that ? she told us of arm'd
men

Here in the city. Will you not withdraw ?

Becket. I once was out with Henry in the days

When Henry loved me, and we came upon
A wild-fowl sitting on her nest, so still I reach'd my hand and touch'd ; she did not stir ;

The snow had frozen round her, and she sat
Stone-dead upon a heap of ice-cold eggs. .
Look ! how this love, this mother, runs thro' all
The world God made—even the beast—the bird !

John of Salisbury. Ay, still a lover of the beast and bird ?

But these arm'd men—will you not hide yourself ?
Perchance the fierce De Brocs from Saltwood
Castle,

To assail our Holy Mother lest she brood Too long o'er this hard egg, the world, and send

Her whole heart's heat into it, till it break
Into young angels. Pray you, hide yourself.

Becket. There was a little fair-hair'd Norman maid
Lived in my mother's house: if Rosamund is
The world's rose, as her name imports her—she
Was the world's lily.

John of Salisbury. Ay, and what of her?

Becket. She died of leprosy.

John of Salisbury. I know not why You call these old things back again, my
lord.

Becket. The drowning man, they say, remembers all
The chances of his life, just ere he dies.

John of Salisbury. Ay—but these arm'd men —will you drown yourself?

He loses half the meed of martyrdom
Who will be martyr when he might escape.

Becket. What day of the week? Tuesday?

John of Salisbury. Tuesday, my lord.

Becket. On a Tuesday was I born, and on a Tuesday
Baptized; and on a Tuesday did I fly Forth from Northampton; on a Tuesday pass'd

From England into bitter banishment;
On a Tuesday at Pontigny came to me
The ghostly warning of my martyrdom;

On a Tuesday from mine exile I return'd,
And on a Tuesday—

[TRACY enters, then FITZURSE, DE BRITO, and DE MORVILLE. MONKS following.

—on a Tuesday—Tracy !

A long silence broken by FITZURSE saying, con-temptuously,

God help thee !

John of Salisbury (aside). How the good Archbishop reddens !

He never yet could brook the note of scorn.

Fitzurse. My lord, we bring a message from the King

Beyond the water ; will you have it alone,

Or with these listeners near you ?

Becket. As you will.

Fitzurse. Nay, as you will.

Becket. Nay, as you will.

John of Salisbury. Why then

Better perhaps to speak with them apart.

Let us withdraw.

[*All go out except the four KNIGHTS and
BECKET.*

Fitzurse. We are all alone with him.
Shall I not smite him with his own cross-staff ?

De Morville. No, look ! the door is open : let him be.

Fitzurse. The King condemns your excommunicating—

Becket. This is no secret, but a public matter. In here again !

[JOHN OF SALISBURY and MONKS return.

Now, sirs, the King's commands !

Fitzurse. The King beyond the water, thro' our voices,

Commands you to be dutiful and leal
To your young King on this side of the water,
Not scorn him for the foibles of his youth.
What ! you would make his coronation void
By cursing those who crown'd him. Out upon you !

Becket. Reginald, all men know I loved the Prince.

His father gave him to my care, and I Became his second father : he had his faults,
For which I would have laid mine own life down
To help him from them, since indeed I loved him,

And love him next after my lord his father.
Rather than dim the splendor of his crown
I fain would treble and quadruple it
With revenues, realms, and golden provinces
So that were done in equity.

Fitzurse. You have broken
Your bond of peace, your treaty with the King—
Wakening such brawls and loud disturbances
In England, that he calls you oversea
To answer for it in his Norman courts.

Becket. Prate not of bonds, for never, oh, never again
Shall the waste voice of the bond-breaking sea
Divide me from the mother church of England,
My Canterbury. Loud disturbances !
Oh, ay—the bells rang out even to deafening,
Organ and pipe, and dulcimer, chants and hymns
In all the churches, trumpets in the halls,
Sobs, laughter, cries : they spread their raiment down
Before me—would have made my pathway flowers,
Save that it was mid-winter in the street,
But full mid-summer in those honest hearts.

Fitzurse. The King commands you to absolve
the bishops
Whom you have excommunicated.

Becket. I? Not I, the Pope. Ask him for absolution.

Fitzurse. But you advised the Pope.

Becket. And so I did.
They have but to submit.

The Four Knights. The King commands you.
We are all King's men.

Becket. King's men at least should know
That their own King closed with me last July
That I should pass the censures of the Church
On those that crown'd young Henry in this realm,
And trampled on the rights of Canterbury.

Fitzurse. What! dare you charge the King with treachery?

He sanction thee to excommunicate
The prelates whom he chose to crown his son!

Becket. I spake no word of treachery, Reginald.
But for the truth of this I make appeal
To all the archbishops, bishops, prelates, barons, Monks, knights, five hundred, that were there and heard.

Nay, you yourself were there: you heard yourself.

Fitzurse. I was not there.

Becket. I saw you there.

Fitzurse. I was not.

Becket. You were. I never forget anything.

Fitzurse. He makes the King a traitor, me a liar.

How long shall we forbear him?

John of Salisbury (drawing BECKET aside). O
my good lord,
Speak with them privately on this hereafter.
You see they have been revelling, and I fear
Are braced and brazen'd up with Christmas wines
For any murderous brawl.

Becket. And yet they prate
 Of mine, my brawls, when those, that name themselves
 Of the King's part, have broken down our barns,
 Wasted out diocese, outraged our tenants,
 Lifted our produce, driven our clerics out—
 Why they, your friends, those ruffians, the De Brocs,
 They stood on Dover beach to murder me,
 They slew my stags in mine own manor here,
 Mutilated, poor brute, my sumpter-mule,
 Plunder'd the vessel full of Gascon wine,
 The old King's present, carried off the casks,
 Kill'd half the crew, dungeon'd the other half
 In Pevensey Castle—

De Morville. Why not rather then,
 If this be so, complain to your young King,
 Not punish of your own authority?

Becket. Mine enemies barr'd all access to the boy.
 They knew he loved me.
 Hugh, Hugh, how proudly you exalt your head!
 Nay, when they seek to overturn our rights,
 I ask no leave of king, or mortal man,
 To set them straight again. Alone I do it.
 Give to the King the things that are the King's,
 And those of God to God.

Fitzurse. Threats ! threats ! ye hear him.
What ! will he excommunicate all the world ?

[The KNIGHTS come round BECKET.

De Tracy. He shall not.

De Brito. Well, as yet—I should be grateful—

He hath not excommunicated me.

Becket. Because thou wast born excommunicate.

I never spied in thee one gleam of grace.

De Brito. Your Christian's Christian charity !

Becket. By St. Denis—

De Brito. Ay, by St. Denis, now will he flame out,

And lose his head as old St. Denis did.

Becket. Ye think to scare me from my loyalty
To God and to the Holy Father. No !
Tho' all the swords in England flashed above
me

Ready to fall at Henry's word or yours—

Tho' all the loud-lung'd trumpets upon earth
Blared from the heights of all the thrones of her kings,

Blowing the world against me, I would stand
Clothed with the full authority of Rome,
Mail'd in the perfect panoply of faith,
First of the foremost of their files, who die
For God, to people heaven in the great day
When God makes up his jewels. Once I fled—

Never again, and you—I marvel at you—
 Ye know what is between us. Ye have sworn Yourselves my men when I was Chancellor—
 My vassals—and yet threaten your Archbishop
 In his own house.

Knights. Nothing can be between us
 That goes against our fealty to the King.

Fitzurse. And in his name we charge you that ye keep
 This traitor from escaping.

Becket. Rest you easy,
 For I am easy to keep. I shall not fly.
 Here, here, here will you find me.

De Morville. Know you not
 You have spoken to the peril of your life?

Becket. As I shall speak again.

Fitzurse, De Tracy, and De Brito. To arms !

[They rush out, DE MORVILLE lingers.

Becket. De Morville,
 I had thought so well of you ; and even now
 You seem the least assassin of the four.
 Oh, do not damn yourself for company !
 Is it too late for me to save your soul ?
 I pray you for one moment stay and speak.

De Morville. Becket, it is too late. [Exit.

Becket. Is it too late ?
 Too late on earth may be too soon in hell.

Knights (in the distance). Close the great gate
 —ho, there—upon the town.

Becket's Retainers. Shut the hall-doors.

[A pause.

Becket. You hear them, brother John ;
Why do you stand so silent, brother John ?

John of Salisbury. For I was musing on an ancient saw,
Suaviter in modo, fortiter in re,
Is strength less strong when hand-in-hand with grace ?

Gratior in pulchro corpore virtus. Thomas,
Why should you heat yourself for such as these ?

Becket. Methought I answer'd moderately enough.

John of Salisbury. As one that blows the coal to cool the fire.
My lord, I marvel why you never lean
On any man's advising but your own.

Becket. Is it so, Dan John ? well, what should I have done ?

John of Salisbury. You should have taken counsel with your friends
Before these bandits brake into your presence.
They seek—you make—occasion for your death.

Becket. My counsel is already taken, John.
I am prepared to die.

John of Salisbury. We are sinners all,
The best of all not all-prepared to die.

Becket. God's will be done !

John of Salisbury. Ay, well. God's will be done!

Grim (reëntering). My lord, the knights are arming in the garden

Beneath the sycamore.

Becket. Good! let them arm.

Grim. And one of the De Brocs is with them, Robert,

The apostate monk that was with Randulf here. He knows the twists and turnings of the place.

Becket. No fear!

Grim. No fear, my lord.

[Crashes on the hall-doors. The MONKS flee.

Becket (rising). Our dovecote flown!

I cannot tell why monks should all be cowards.

John of Salisbury. Take refuge in your own cathedral, Thomas.

Becket. Do they not fight the Great Fiend day by day?

Valor and holy life should go together.

Why should all monks be cowards?

John of Salisbury. Are they so?

I say, take refuge in your own cathedral.

Becket. Ay, but I told them I would wait them here.

Grim. May they not say you dared not show yourself

In your old place? and vespers are beginning.

[Bell rings for vespers till end of scene.

You should attend the office, give them heart.
They fear you slain : they dread they know not what.

Becket. Ay, monks, not men.

Grim. I am a monk, my lord.

Perhaps, my lord, you wrong us.
Some would stand by you to the death.

Becket. Your pardon.

John of Salisbury. He said "Attend the office."

Becket. Attend the office?

Why then—The Cross !—who bears my Cross before me?

Methought they would have brain'd me with it,
John. [GRIM takes it.

Grim. I ! Would that I could bear thy cross indeed !

Becket. The Mitre !

John of Salisbury. Will you wear it?— there ! [BECKET puts on the mitre.

Becket. The Pall !

I go to meet my King ! [Puts on the pall.

Grim. To meet the King?

[Crashes on the doors as they go out.

John of Salisbury. Why do you move with such a stateliness?

Can you not hear them yonder like a storm,
Battering the doors, and breaking thro' the walls?

Becket. Why do the heathen rage? My two good friends,
What matters murder'd here, or murder'd there?
And yet my dream foretold my martyrdom
In mine own church. It is God's will. Go on.
Nay, drag me not. We must not seem to fly.

Scene III.

North Transept of Canterbury Cathedral.

On the right hand a flight of steps leading to the Choir, another flight on the left, leading to the North Aisle. Winter afternoon slowly darkening. Low thunder now and then of an approaching storm. MONKS heard chanting the service. ROSAMUND kneeling.

Rosamund. O blessed saint, O glorious Benedict,—

These arm'd men in the city, these fierce faces—

Thy holy follower founded Canterbury—

Save that dear head which now is Canterbury,

Save him, he saved my life, he saved my
child,

Save him, his blood would darken Henry's name ;

Save him till all as saintly as thyself

He miss the searching flame of purgatory,

And pass at once perfect to Paradise.

[Noise of steps and voices in the cloisters.

Hark ! Is it they ? Coming ! He is not here—
Not yet, thank Heaven. O save him !

[Goes up steps leading to choir.

Becket (entering, forced along by JOHN OF SALISBURY and GRIM). No, I tell you!

I cannot bear a hand upon my person,
Why do you force me thus against my will?

Grim. My lord, we force you from your enemies.

Becket. As you would force a king from being crown'd.

John of Salisbury. We must not force the crown of martyrdom.

[Service stops. MONKS come down from the stairs that lead to the choir.]

Monks. Here is the great Archbishop! He lives! he lives!

Die with him, and be glorified together.

Becket. Together? . . . get you back! go on with the office.

Monks. Come, then, with us to vespers.

Becket. How can I come

When you so block the entry? Back, I say!

Go on with the office. Shall not Heaven be served

Tho' earth's last earthquake clash'd the minster-bells,

And the great deeps were broken up again,

And hiss'd against the sun?

[Noise in the cloisters.]

Monks. The murderers, hark!

Let us hide! let us hide!

Becket. What do these people fear?

Monks. Those arm'd men in the cloister.

Becket. Be not such cravens!

I will go out and meet them.

Grim and others. Shut the doors!

We will not have him slain before our face.

[They close the doors of the transept. Knocking.

Fly, fly, my lord, before they burst the doors!

[Knocking.

Becket. Why, these are our own monks who follow'd us!

And will you bolt them out, and have them slain?

Undo the doors: the church is not a castle:

Knock, and it shall be open'd. Are you deaf?

What, have I lost authority among you?

Stand by, make way!

[Opens the doors. Enter MONKS from cloister.

Come in, my friends, come in!

Nay, faster, faster!

Monks. Oh, my lord Archbishop,
A score of knights all arm'd with swords and axes—

To the choir, to the choir!

[MONKS divide, part flying by the stairs on the right, part by those on the left. The rush of these last bears BECKET along with them some way up the steps, where he is left standing alone.

Becket. Shall I too pass to the choir
And die upon the patriarchal throne
Of all my predecessors?

John of Salisbury. No, to the crypt!
Twenty steps down. Stumble not in the darkness,
Lest they should seize thee.

Grim. To the crypt? no—no,
To the chapel of St. Blaise beneath the roof!

John of Salisbury (pointing upward and downward). That way, or this! Save thyself either way.

Becket. Oh, no, not either way, nor any way,
Save by that way which leads thro' night to light.
Not twenty steps, but one.

And fear not I should stumble in the darkness,
Not tho' it be their hour, the power of darkness,
But my hour too, the power of light in darkness!
I am not in the darkness but the light,
Seen by the Church in Heaven, the Church on earth—

The power of life in death to make her free!

[Enter the four KNIGHTS. JOHN OF SALISBURY flies to the altar of St. Benedict.

Fitzurse. Here, here, King's men!
[Catches hold of the last flying MONK.
Where is the traitor Becket?

Monk. I am not he ! I am not he, my lord.
I am not he indeed !

Fitzurse. Hence to the fiend !
[Pushes him away.]

Where is this treble traitor to the King ?

De Tracy. Where is the Archbishop, Thomas
Becket ?

Becket. Here.
No traitor to the King, but Priest of God,
Primate of England. [Descending into the transept.]
I am he ye seek.

What would ye have of me ?

Fitzurse. Your life.

De Tracy. Your life.

De Morville. Save that you will absolve the bishops.

Becket. Never,—
Except they make submission to the Church.
You had my answer to that cry before.

De Morville. Why, then you are a dead man ;
flee !

Becket. I will not.
I am readier to be slain, than thou to slay.
Hugh, I know well thou hast but half a heart
To bathe this sacred pavement with my blood.
God pardon thee and these, but God's full curse
Shatter you all to pieces if ye harm
One of my flock !

Fitzurse. Was not the great gate shut?
They are thronging in to vespers—half the town.
We shall be overwhelm'd. Seize him and carry
him!

Come with us—nay—thou art our prisoner—
come!

De Morville. Ay, make him prisoner, do not harm the man.

[FITZURSE lays hold of the ARCH-BISHOP'S pall.

Becket. Touch me not!

De Brito. How the good priest gods himself!
He is not yet ascended to the Father.

Fitzurse. I will not only touch, but drag thee
hence.

Becket. Thou art my man, thou art my vassal.
Away!

[Flings him off till he reels, almost to falling.

De Tracy (lays hold of the pall). Come; as he said, thou art our prisoner.

Becket. Down!

[Throws him headlong,

Fitzurse (advances with drawn sword). I told thee that I should remember thee!

Becket. Profligate pander!

Fitzurse. Do you hear that? strike, strike!

[Strikes off the ARCHBISHOP'S mitre, and wounds him in the forehead.

Becket (covers his eyes with his hand). I do commend my cause to God, the Virgin,
St. Denis of France and St. Alphege of England,
And all the tutelar Saints of Canterbury.

[GRIM wraps his arms about the ARCH-BISHOP.

Spare this defence, dear brother.

[TRACY has arisen, and approaches, hesitatingly, with his sword raised.

Fitzurse. Strike him, Tracy!

Rosamund (rushing down steps from the choir).

No, No, No, No!

Fitzurse. This wanton here. De Morville,
Hold her away.

De Morville. I hold her.

Rosamund (held back by DE MORVILLE, and stretching out her arms). Mercy, mercy,
As you would hope for mercy.

Fitzurse. Strike, I say.

Grim. O God, O noble knights, O sacrilege!
Strike our Archbishop in his own cathedral!
The Pope, the King, will curse you—the whole world

Abhor you; ye will die the death of dogs!

Nay, nay, good Tracy. [Lifts his arm.

Fitzurse. Answer not, but strike.

De Tracy. There is my answer then.

[Sword falls on GRIM's arm, and glances from it, wounding BECKET.

Grim.

Mine arm is sever'd.

I can no more—fight out the good fight—die

Conqueror.

[Staggers into the chapel of St. Benedict.

Becket (falling on his knees). At the right hand of Power—

Power and great glory—for thy Church, O
Lord—

Into Thy hands, O Lord—into Thy hands!—

[Sinks prone.

De Brito. This last to rid thee of a world of brawls!

[Kills him.

The traitor's dead, and will arise no more.

Fitzurse. Nay, have we still'd him? What!
the great Archbishop!

Does he breathe? No?

De Tracy. No, Reginald, he is dead.

(Storm bursts.)*

De Morville. Will the earth gape and swallow us?

* A tremendous thunderstorm actually broke over the Cathedral as the murderers were leaving it.

De Brito. The deed's done—
Away!
